The Gold Decision
Murder With Germs
How Fascism Starts
The Atom. Absolute Zero

By Arthur Brisbane

The stock exchange and general business, yesterday, expected the Supreme Court's gold decision today. General business merely wondered. The stock exchange ordered directors to be on hand, ready to act, and, presumably, ready to close the exchange to prevent panic.

It was hoped the court might postpone its decision until after 3 o'clock, giving the exchange a few hours to think. But the Supreme Court rolls on, in its dignified course, like Aldebaran or Betelgeux, unconscious of all but law. Meanwhile business wonders how it could pay gold, with the government saying, "You may not have any."

A pretty question will arise if the highest court orders individuals to do what the Congress and President say they may not do. It is understood that the administration has made its arrangements, long since. But business and the exchange wonder. Don't be frightened into selling anything that is good, and paid for.

You have read about "war with germs" in the next great outburst.

India proves that it could be done. At Alipore two are condemned to death, convicted of "germ murder." As rich Amerendra Nath Pandey walked along the street he felt a prick, a sharp stab. He cried out. A germ poisoner had injected plague germs into his blood. Amerendra died. His murderers were his step-brother and his doctor. Two other doctors, accused, were acquitted.

Other kinds of war, nearer home, are also disagreeable. A union of public utilities employes warns New York that it proposes to cut off all light from streets and houses in Brooklyn, Queens and Manhattan, south of Fourteenth street. That would be good news for burglars, uncomfortable for citizens.

A new union of elevator operators and general "house service men" promises New York to call out 200,000 men, tie up all elevators, shut off heat, close stores, hotels, theaters, office buildings and cripple apartment houses.

Unions consist of organized men, cities of disorganized masses of citizens. Politicians fear well-organized bodies, pay little attention to forgetful, disorganized masses of citizens.

Some day someone may organize the citizens, as Mussolini did in Italy, Hitler in Germany, Stalin in Russia, Kemal in Turkey. That is called Fascism, which follows the demonstrated inability of the people to protect themselves against well organized minorities.

One unpleasant feature of Fascism is its refusal to recognize the rights of union labor, or let its leaders go on collecting dues. Under Mussolini, a labor leader gets a pick and shovel, no traveling expenses, no union salary.

At Leyden, in Holland, scientists have produced a degree of cold said to approach within one five-thousandth of a degree of absolute zero.

A gigantic electro-magnet, in combination with liquid helium, produces the lowest temperature ever known on earth.

The lowest possible degree of cold, the absolute zero, would be minus 273 degrees centigrade, or minus 459.6 Fahrenheit. At least science thinks so. It used to call the atom "smallest fragment of matter."

Science needs "absolute zero" to help in tearing apart the atom, now known to be a miniature solar system.

Deep down in our sun, temperatures running as high as forty million degrees centigrade, also tear the atom to pieces. Electrons shooting out from the sun's disintegrated atoms provide our light and heat.

It is a complicated universe, unnecessarily so, it seems to some of us. When Jeans and Eddington tell you "the sun sends out and loses two hundred and fifty thousand tons of solid material every minute," one million tons every four minutes, you say that it is too much.

Interesting that extreme heat or cold, able to destroy life, can also rip the atom apart.

But cold cannot destroy the lowest forms of life, and that made it possible for primitive life to come here through the ether's absolute zero, after our earth had cooled off sufficiently.

It has been customary at executions in New Jersey State Prison, to admit relatives of a murdered man, that they may witness the killing of the murderer; very considerate, if rela-

2 WOMEN Beheaded by HITLER

PAIR REFUSED MERCY AS SPIES

By Associated Press

Berlin, Feb. 18—Two German women, Baroness Renate Von Natzmer and Frau Benita Von Falkenhayn, were executed on the block today as spies.

An axeman beheaded them in Ploetzensee prison in northwestern Berlin, shortly before noon, as the German government acted with war-time sternness and the utmost secrecy to smash espionage of Germany's military secrets.

The two women were accomplices of a Polish baron, Colonel George Sosnowski, formerly of the Polish army.

Sosnowski himself was saved from execution by the intervention of the Polish ambassador and, although the reported espionage leader, escaped with his life but under a sentence to life imprisonment.

Girl Given Life

Also sentenced to life imprisonment was Fraulein Irena Von Jena, a German.

The sentences were passed Saturday by the People's Court and the verdict was studied over the week-end by Reichsfuehrer Hitler himself, who is now in Munich.

Hitler ordered his legal experts, headed by Hans Frank, minister of justice, to consider all angles of the case before any decision as to possible clemency was taken.

Finally, however, he signed the death warrant and the decapitations took place at once.

The women were said to have been dupes of Colonel Sosnowski in obtaining military information from various sources.

Fraulein Von Jena, for example, is the daughter of a German army general and a stenographer in the Reichswehr ministry.

Frau Von Falkenhayn was born Zollikofer-Altenklinger. She married Joseph Von Berg, a flier in the German air corps during the World War and a man of high standing in Germany.

American Professors Trained by Soviet, Teach in U. S. Schools

IN his capacity as editor of "The Social Frontier," an ultra-radical "journal of educational criticism," Dr. George S. Counts, professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, has declared a "crusade" against the Hearst newspapers.

Dr. Counts is angry with these newspapers because they have been exposing and opposing Communistic influences and propaganda in the schools and colleges of America.

Our action interferes very seriously with Dr. Counts, who happens to be himself the foremost collegiate Communistic propagandist in the country.

For Dr. Counts is the author of a book, "The Soviet Challenge to America," and of a pamphlet entitled "Dare the School Build a New Social Order?"

He is the translator of "New Russia's Primer," the Communist text book used in the schools of Soviet Russia.

He is—according to the propagandist literature ISSUED BY THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT ITSELF—an OFFICIAL ADVISOR to the MOSCOW STATE UNIVERSITY, and will be in Moscow this year, from July 16 to August 25, TO SERVE IN THAT CAPACITY at the summer session of the university.

Obviously, therefore, Dr. Counts is a very satisfactory person IN MOSCOW.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the Counts-Communistic "crusade" against the Hearst press and against Americanism is made in a ten-page "release" to newspapers, graciously informing them that they have "permission to reprint any and all articles" from the forthcoming issue of "The Social Frontier."

The announcement further says:

"A call for a nation-wide attack by clergymen, newspaper workers, labor leaders, teachers and other molders of opinion upon Fascist journalistic practises typical of William Randolph Hearst is made by a group of nationally known educators in the current number of 'The Social Frontier' . . . Timed to appear just before the opening of the mid-winter educational conventions, February 21-28, when thousands of educators will gather in Washington and Atlantic City to consider national educational policies."

The educational conventions to which the Counts propaganda is addressed are the conventions of the National Education Association and its department of superintendence.

These same organizations have, year after year, through their officials and otherwise, repeatedly commended and thanked the Hearst newspapers for their unremitting support and DEFENSE OF EDUCATION AND OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM.

The National Education Association has reprinted from these newspapers, and distributed throughout the nation, scores of CARTOONS, EDITORIALS and ARTICLES representing the ACTIVE CONTRIBUTION OF THE HEARST PAPERS TO THE CAUSE OF EDUCATION.

The Counts propaganda, directed against the Hearst papers, ignores all this, and accuses the American and Canadian security and commodity markets surged upward on news on the Supreme Court's gold decision. Interpreted as a victory for New Deal monetary policies.

Industrial shares while t no matching the performance of the other sections of the stock list managed to show gains of $1 to $4.

After the hectic rise around noon prices settled back by mid-afternoon. In some cases more than one-half of maximum gains were relinquished.

Toward the close prices again started upward, but at a more conservative pace.

At Chicago, wheat got up 3 cents a bushel and corn about 4 cents from the morning lows, when trading became so tumultuous that dealings were suspended.

Prices also surged upward at Winnipeg. The suspension at Chicago was followed at Minneapolis and other Northwestern points.

Lower priced bonds at New York shot upward along with stocks. High priced bonds, particularly U. S. Governments and a number of

Court Vote 5-4

BONDHOLDERS HAVE SUFFERED NO LOSS, JURISTS RULE

Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press

London, Feb. 18—High diplomatic quarters here stated tonight that pressure is likely to be brought upon foreign governments to make protests to the United States on the Supreme Court's gold decision.

By International News Service

Washington, Feb. 18—The government won a smashing victory today in the long-awaited gold cases in the Supreme Court—but by the narrowest possible margin, 5 to 4.

A bare majority of the court upheld the right of Congress to abrogate the gold clause in $75,000,000,000 in private bonds, and held that the holders of liberty bonds and gold certificates, having suffered no loss in the devaluation of the dollar, cannot demand payment in gold or its equivalent in the devalued paper dollar, $1.69 to $1.

This decision virtually drove the holders of Liberty bonds out of court, since it expressed doubt that they ever could show any material loss in a suit in the Court of Claims.

Veteran attorneys held that the decision had the same effect on Liberty bond holders as if the Supreme Court had held the law constitutional as it affected them.

The court shattered all precedent and custom by the manner in which it handed down the decisions.

Chief Justice Hughes announced the findings of the court in four separate cases soon after mounting the bench, and then began reading the lengthy opinions to support them.

This was in exactly reverse order to the usual procedure, which starts with the reading of the opinion, with a decision at the end.

Chief Justice Hughes was supported by Justices Brandeis, Stone, Roberts and Cardozo.

Associate Justice McReynolds, long noted for his conservatism on the bench, read the dissenting opinions, and was supported by Justices Vandevanter, Sutherland and Butler.

Justice Stone differed with the conclusions in one case, but supported the majority in its verdict.

This was the case involving John M. Perry, New York lawyer, who had demanded either payment in gold or its equivalent in paper money at the new rate for his fourth Liberty bonds.

The 5-to-4 division was revaled after the reading of hte majority opinions had been concluded.

It was a familiar division, 5 to 4, for the court has so divided on a number of miportant issues, with usually the same lineup.

One striking sentence in Justice

Hearst newspaper of "endangering academic freedom."

"Academic freedom" is a phrase taken over by the radical groups as a mere camouflage for the teaching of alien doctrines.

THE Hearst newspapers are and have always been and always will be steadfast defenders of REAL academic freedom, exactly as the Hearst newspapers stand for LOYALTY TO AMERICA.

But the Hearst newspapers do not and cannot condone the APPROVAL in schools and colleges of Communism or Fascism or any other un-American and subversive doctrines, under the PRETENSE of exercising academic freedom.

That is ALL THERE IS to that issue.

Now, who else is tied up with Dr. Counts, of Columbia University and Moscow, in his propaganda crusade against the Hearst newspapars?

We find the following names, among others:

HEBER HARPER, Columbia University.

HENRY PRATT FAIRCHILD, New York University.

E. C. LINDEMAN, New York School of Social Work.

LOIS H. MEEK, Child Development Institute.

So we have TWO GROUPS identified in the Counts following — The group OFFICIALLY ASSOCIATED WITH THE SOVIET UNIVERSITY AT MOSCOW, and the group belonging to the United Action Campaign Committee.

Moscow University, with which Counts, Dewey and Harper are all linked, teaches "the violent overthrow of the entire traditional social order"—the Communist creed.

Bearing the approving names of TWENTY-SIX American college officials, a 24-page pamphlet is being circulated by Soviet Russia among American teachers, inviting them to become summer students at the Moscow State University and to imbibe Communism at its very source—obviously for the purpose of making adept COMMUNIST PROPAGANDISTS out of them.

THE pamphlet, together with an accompanying publicity statement, clearly reveals the nature and implications of the scheme. The following points are luminously emphasized:

1—That with the co-operation of travel companies, "a special low rate with many inducements" is offered to teachers making the Russian pilgrimage.

2—That the "Anglo-American Section" of the summer session at the Moscow State University will begin July 16 and conclude August 25.

3—That "instruction is in the English language, by an ALL-SOVIET faculty of professors and specialists. From time to time the school is addressed by PROMINENT SOVIET LEADERS."

4—That "the course 'principles of the collective and socialist society' is prerequisite for admission to all other courses."

The italicized words are italicized in the Communist pamphlet, thus furnishing proof that the Moscow summer session is wholly and solely a PROPAGANDA SCHOOL, maintained by the Soviet government for the single objective of "indoctrinating" teachers in Communism.

The second page of the pamphlet is entirely filled with the names of American college professors comprising the "National Advisory Council" in this country—including two Columbia University professors who will be present at the coming session of the "American Summer School in Moscow" as official advisors on the spot.

5—That the Moscow summer session idea "originated as the result of an experiment conducted during the summer of 1933 by a group of American educators"; that the 1933 "American summer school in Russia" was attended by twenty-five "teachers and students of education"; that in 1934, two hundred and twelve students attended, including "under-graduates, principals, professors, psychologists, social workers"; and that this year a thousand Americans are expected to subject themselves to the Communist virus.

6—That "there is considerable fraternization" among Russians and Americans at the summer school.

7—That on conclusion of the summer school, the American students will have two weeks of "SUPERVISED TRAVEL" in Russia — which means, as the world knows, they will be shown precisely what THE SOVIET GOVERNMENT wants them to see, or to THINK THEY HAVE SEEN. Nothing else!

8—That "each year several American educators are invited to Moscow as resident advisors to the summer session. DR. GEORGE S. COUNTS and DR. HEBER HARPER, professors of education, Teachers College, Columbia University, will act as advisors during the summer session of 1935."

AND this insidious propaganda, directed as it is against the institutions of America, is being filtered into American schools and colleges BY THE SOVIET AGENCY IN NEW YORK at the very time when the American government itself has been compelled by Soviet duplicity to break off "friendly" conversations with Russia and to close most of its consulates in that hapless land of mass starvation and "blood purges!"

Who, besides the Soviet government, is behind it?

Smith, Ely, Howe 'Hidden' In Probe, Charges Butler

By Associated Press

Kennett Square, Pa., Feb. 18—The Congressional committee on un-American activities is charged by General Smedley D. Butler, with suppression of testimony and names in its investigation of an alleged Fascist plot against the government.

In an address broadcast from his home, the fiery ex-Marine asserted the group in its report to Congress last week ignored important witnesses, whose names were written into the record of the inquiry.

He pointed to his testimony, in which he declared an offer had been made to him to lead a march of 50,000 veterans on Washington, and flatly stated "some of the most important portions had been suppressed in the official report to Congress."

These "big shots," who, he said, should have been called "if the committee wanted to get at the whole truth," were identified by Butler as:

Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt.

Former Governor Ely of Massachusetts.

Butler brought in also the names of Gerald P. Maguire, employed in Murphy's brokerage office and mentioned in connection with the purported offer made to Butler to lead the march on the national capital, and William Doyle, former Legion department commander in Massachusetts.

He attacked the committee for conducting the investigation at secret sessions, and demanded to know:

"Why was this investigation behind closed doors. It is public business isn't it?

"It was a secret hearing for the same reason that the testimony now has been suppressed. The committee didn't want news paper reporters there."

2 CHILDREN DIE From Wrong Toxin

San Francisco, Feb. 18 (AP)—The deaths of two children which occurred after they allegedly were given diphtheria toxin by mistake in a hospital, were under investigation here today.

The city hospital director said a hospital attendant had blundered in administering diphtheria toxin instead of anti-diphtheria vaccine to five children, Lois Bowden, six, died yesterday, and Natalie Rojnovsky succumbed last Thursday. The other three children were reported out of danger today.

U. S. S. IDAHO Being Modernized

The destroyer, which carries a crew of 1214 men will be tied up for over a wook. Work onthe vessel will employ several hundred men.

Following repairs the U. S. S. Idaho will make trial runs at Provincetown and then return to Boston to participae in South Boston's 17th of March festivities.

REDS' OFFICES TRACED TO BOSTON

Scores of presses here grind out reams of inflammatory literature that is scattered throughout the United States.

These and other startling disclosures were made by Michael F. Shannon, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, here today as guest of the Massachusetts Elks Association.

Mr. Shannon said that much of the propaganda during the last nation-wide textile strike originated here and all but ruined any chance of amicable settlement.

Boston is the Communist district No. 1 in plans to overthrow the government by force, he said, adding that Reds have moved out of the class of "parlor bugaboo." They are now acknowledgedly a real and present peril.

More than 2,000,000 signatures are already on a memorial which will be sent to Congress the middle of March urging that steps be taken—and outlining exactly what steps.

First is the establishment of a federal department for the discovery and investigation of Communistic activities.

Second is the outlawing of all persons engaged in such work.

The Department of Justice would do the investigating. It would have the power to pry into whatever secret places it suspected contained subversive acticity.

It would then be empowered to shut down on such activities by:

Closing the mails to Red literature.

Imprisoning American born agitators.

Man, 66, Kills Self

Carl A. Walker, 66, of 17 Lowell street, Saugus, today was found dead in the garage at the rear of his home, shot through the heart. Medical Examiner Nathaniel P. Breed pronounced death due to suicide. Unemployment was blamed.

LEGION WARNS of U. S. Invasion

Two sorts of invasion of this country should receive more attention from Congress, according to speakers at the American Legion Auxilliary conference at Faneuil Hall.

Governor Curley spoke about one, the invasion by foreign industry of the American, and particularly the Massachusetts markets. Tariff walls are needed, the governor said.

The other invasion mentioned was militaristic, and several officers of the Legion urged a more adequate system of national defense.

ROXY BANDIT Gets $11,000

New York., Feb. 18 (AP)—A bold robber, who carries off his loot in a paper bag, entered the Roxy Theater just after midnight today, tied up three officials and escaped with cash estimated at between $11,000 and $16,000.

An audience of 2500 persons sat watching a motion picture, unaware of the holdup.

The robbery took place in the office of James Muldoon, Roxy treasurer, just off the spacious rotunda through which a steady stream of persons was passing.

Bill Bars Reds Off Ballot In Bay State Elections

No Communist's name will appear on a Massachusetts election ballot in the future of the General Court enacts a bill urged on its committee on elections by the American Legion.

Introduced by Representative Richard F. Paul of Canton, a former state commander of the Legion, the bill apparently had the approval of every member of the committee except Representative Charles H. Morrill of Haverhill.

He said that such repression would only stimulate the Reds to violence, thus defeating its own purpose. He also questioned its constitutionality.

The bill is designed to keep off the ballot the names of all political parties advocating sedition or treason. It would also forbid listing a newly-organized party unless an affidavit had been filed with the Secretary of State that it does not advocate the overthrow by violence of any government, local, state or national.

Citing the warning of Michael F. Shannon, grand exalted ruler of the Elks, that Massachusetts was a hotbed of radicalism, Paul said that eight States had already made similar restrictions part of their law, and that bills were pending in 40 other States.

"Southbridge, scene of a recent textile strike, was nearly ruined by Communistic activities," said John H. Walsh, legislative agent of the Legion, who appeared in support of the bill at today's hearing.

"This measure will keep the Communists off the ballot for all time," said Paul. "If the Legion had its way, they would not be in the country at all. Most of them are not American citizens. They are not a peaceful party. And they do advocate violent opposition to our government."

Police charged Fink was involved in an accident Saturday night which caused the death of John W. Brown, 28, of Seekonk.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 18—Bruno Hauptmann read and smoked in his cell in the Jersey prison death house today, but his attorneys were busy on the outside clearing the way for an appeal from his conviction for the Lindbergh kidnap-killing.

Frederick A. Pope, defense counsel, said he would appear—today or tomorrow—before Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard to petition the state to bear the expense of printing the trial record. The cost is about $10,000.

Hauptmann has sworn a pauper's oath, and under Jersey statute the trial judge may grant the petition at his discretion.

The second step in an appeal, Pope said, will be taken speedily if Justice Trenchard accedes to the request.

It will be an application to Chancellor Luther A. Campbell for a writ of error to the State Supreme Court.

Pope said he, C. Lloyd Fisher and Egbert Rosecranz, members of the defense staff, may appear Tuesday before the chancellor.

Denial of such writs is customary in order that an appeal may be taken immediately to the court of errors and appeals, the state's highest tribunal. The court meets again in May.

A censorship was clamped down over the state prison here as Hauptman began his third day in the death house.

He is a man with a shaved head and without an identity, except for number 17,400—one man among 1200.

He has not been visited by his attorneys or his wife, and has received no communication from the outside world since he entered his isolated cell.

Colonel George Selby, acting Chief Warden, refused to give any information about Hauptmann's condition or activities, beyond saying that he "must be normal or I'd have a report about it."

He refused to make inquiries of the two regular death house officers and the special guard instituted over Hauptmann. He explained:

"We don't want to make a spectacle of this serious business."

The censorship came coincident with verification of a report that a condemned man once escaped from the very cell in which Hauptmann is confined, about 20 years ago. Since then, heavy iron bars have been put on the skylights above the cells, and Colonel Selby said:

"Hauptmann hasn't a chance in a million to get out."

Mrs. Hauptmann will be denied permission to see her husband if she comes to Trenton, as it is reported she plans to do, today. The next regular visiting day is Tuesday, and if the board of managers act favorably she may see him then.

None of Hauptmann's attorneys —not even C. Lloyd Fisher, on whom Hauptmann seems to depend most—has asked permission to see him since he arrived here Saturday morning.

2 CONVICTS In Dash at COURTHOUSE

Two state prison convicts broke for liberty today on the steps of the Pemberton Square courthouse.

Shackled together as they came through the revolving doors, Phadeus Zakrazewski and William Baker broke away from their guards and ran through the doors of the Somerset entrance. Guards in full pursuit, were afraid to shoot into the courthouse crowds.

2 Saved From Ice

Two boys were rescued from an ice cake after they drifted helplessly for an hour and a half in the Mystic River. Francis McDonald, 16, of George street, and Frank Bird, 15, of Marston street, both of Medford, kept up a steady cry for help. Patrolman William Henderson came to their rescue with a long pole.

Bay State Surgeon's Skill Her Only Hope

All the way from Omaha, Neb., has come this courageously smiling little patient, 10-year old Alyce Jane McHenry, in the hope that a Fall River surgeon can save her life. She has a rare ailment, an inversion of the stomach. Dr. Philemon Truesdale of Fall River will perform an operation. (Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

18 KILLERS Hunted by POSSES

By Associated Press

Granite, Okla., Feb. 18—Eighteen desperate convicts were at large today after a wholesale break from the state reformatory in which women and children were used as shields and one guard was shot to death.

Back in the cells were 13 other convicts who joined in the Sunday dash for liberty, while Mrs. George A. Waters—the nation's only feminine warden of a male prison—shunned praise for her heroism and sought the source of pistols smuggled to the leaders.

Sheriffs' posses rode throughout the night over the short grass plains seeking to flush the felons from hiding places. Highways were blockaded and farmers grimly guarded their homes against the killers and robbers. The break followed an investigation into reports of cruel treatment of inmates.

"We have been having trouble down here all week," said the warden, who yesterday exposed herself to gunfire of the prisoners. "We took every precaution but we couldn't guard against guns being smuggled in."

When the escaping convicts hunched forward warily behind their hostages, Warden Waters raced into the yard from the warden's residence. Her hand fluttered a signal to riflemen in sentry-boxes.

They fired, but without effect, their marksmanship impeded by the hapless captives.

CURLEY Honors K. of C. HEAD TONIGHT

Governor James M. Curley will tender a dinner in honor of Michael H. Carmody, Supreme Knight, of the Knights of Columbus, in Hotel Statler tonight.

K. of C. state leaders with other distinguished Catholic representatives of Greater Boston, will attend.

After the dinner, Supreme Knight Carmody will address officials of more than 50 subordinate councils on the international campaign recently launched by the Knights and known as "Mobilization for Catholic Action."

Participation in the Legion of Decency Campaign, under the leadership of the Bishops' committee of the Catholic church, will also be explained.

Sportsman Dies

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 18 (AP)—Desha Breckinridge, Kentucky published, political leader and sportsman, died at his home here today after a long illness. He was 67.

Girl With Inverted Stomach Here For Cure

Fall River, Feb. 18—Alyce Jane McHenry, 10, will arrive here today to be greeted by a host of friends she has never seen.

For although she has never been east of Omaha, Neb., and her Fall River friends have never seen her, she has made admirers all along her route.

Her purpose in coming to this city is the hope that an operation by Dr. Philemon Truesdale may be able to save her life, or at least to reduce her pain.

A hernia of the diaphragm has so pushed her digestive tract aside that it has crowded her heart over to the right, and virtually destroyed her left lung. There is constant danger of strangulation.

But the child hasn't whimpered.

Instead she has captivated utter strangers during her journey, which was necessarily planned in easy stages.

And as she was completing the last lap of her journey, Dr. Truesdale was cutting short a West Indian cruise to help her.

Mrs. McHenry received a telegram from the famous head of the Truesdale hospital saying that he was leaving at once to see his patient.

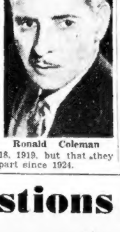
He is the McHenry child's last hope.

The case is remarkably rare. Omaha doctors were unable to cope with it. But they knew Dr. Truesdale's reputation, and suggested him.

Even then, the trip would have been out of the question, had not an Omaha business man, who refused to permit his name to be mentioned, financed the entire proceedings, journey, fees and hospitalization.

RONALD COLMAN Divorce Absolute

London, Feb. 18 (AP)—A court today made absolute the divorce of Ronald Colman, motion picture actor, and Mrs. Thelma Victoria Maud Colman.



Ronald Coleman

Mrs. Colman won a decree nisi July 31, 1934, in an undefended suit.

She testified that she was married to Colman September 18, 1919, but that they had lived apart since 1924.

NEW NRA Stand Due from ROOSEVELT

By Associated Press

Washington, Feb. 18—Congress looked for a message from President Roosevelt today proposing an altered NRA to govern industry.

The President framed this long-awaited expression of policy in the midst of contentions by some congressmen and labor leaders that a compulsory 30-hour week is needed to restore industrial employment to former levels.

He was confronted as well by demands in the Senate for a new investigation of complaints that the present NRA has fostered monopoly and injured the little business man.

One of several points of controversy on which the President's stand was awaited was section 7-A of the present NRA act, guaranteeing the right of labor to organize and bargain collectively.

There had been indications from officials that the White House would seek to continue this clause.

BIGAMOUS Marriage UPHELD

Brockton, Feb. 18—Devotion of a High school girl for her foster-father and a wife's contentment in a bigamous marriage gave a first husband freedom and the wife the right to remarry here today.

Ernest A. Copson, of Lorraine avenue, granted the divorce for his wife's desertion, testified she left him two days after their marriage in Thorndike, Me., on February 9, 1916, to live in her brother's home. The child was born of this brief union.

In July, 1933, he received a letter signed "Mrs. Burke Perkins" from his wife, who wrote that she thought he was dead.

Granting the decree, Judge Loyed E. Chamberlain ruled that the second marriage was "without bigamous intent."

Double Tragedy

Westerly, R. I., Feb. 18—Eugene F. Ward, of Harvey, N. D., who came here for the funeral of his father, Eugene I. Ward, today will attend services for both his parents. His mother died five days after the death of her husband.

U. S. BALLYHOO AT NEW PEAK

Nation Is Flooded

PROPAGANDA SYSTEM TOPS OLD CIRCUS METHODS

(Editor's Note—This is the first of a series of articles disclosing the extent and effect of the propaganda with which government bureaus are now flooding the nation.)

By Universal Service

Washington, Feb. 18—The federal government has gone into the business of ballyhoo and propaganda on the grandest scale in history.

Each new project and "experiment" is being launched with a fanfare of publicity worthy of "the greatest show on earth."

It is organized propaganda. Every facility has been employed to spread it through the press and over the radio.

Professional orators have been placed on the payroll to carry the word to business and fraternal organizations.

Some of the propaganda has even crept into the schools.

Cost Is Cited

The campaign is aimed at enlisting public support of every new governmental undertaking. However, many fantastic, extravagant and misleading claims are made.

It is also costly. Practically every government agency maintains a large, independent publicity organization and their combined consumption of paper and ink alone exceeds that of many major industries. Most of the large free mail cost is due to this propaganda.

Some officials feel that by promising too much and accomplishing too little, government propaganda defeats its own ends and destroys public confidence.

For instance, officials now admit NRA was "oversold" to the public. The NRA campaign brought government propaganda to its full flower.

It was preached through every pulpit of public expression with religious fervor. The wave of disappointment over NRA's failure to accomplish all that was claimed for it has obscured the real gains it did achieve.

Homes Drive

As another conspicuous example is cited the high-powered but futile propaganda stir raised with the inauguration of the Federal Housing Administration.

The FHA's building drive was advanced as the key which would open the door to prosperity. It failed to capture the public interest. Comparatively few people responded to the offer of government financing of home building and repair.

Quickly changing front, the FHA started a furious drive only last December to stimulate private plant construction and rehabilitation. The growing promises of its propaganda even persuaded the conservative United States Chamber of Commerce there might be something to it.

Estimates were made that 3000 million dollars would be spent in a few months by industry and that the army of unemployed would be returned to private jobs before this fall.

These optimistic prophecies have failed to materialize into fact and the FHA is now limping.

Some government heads are beginning to realize that hard-headed business men and the American people as a whole cannot be stampeded by circus appeals.

KINGFISH Gets a Bomb BY MAIL

By International News Service

Washington, Feb. 18—A bomb was found today in the Senate office of Senator Huey P. Long (D.) Louisiana. It was received in the mail.

It was discovered by his secretary Earl Christenberry, who opened the package. It did not explode.

Christenberry summoned police and postal authorities. Long was reported out of the city.

TWO ARRESTED in Store Robbery

Loot of $155 was recovered shortly after a grocery and liquor store at Central and Denver streets, Saugus, was robbed.

Alphonse DeCareau of Gaspar street, Saugus, and William La-Pointe of Berlin, N. H., who roomed on Denver street, Saugus, were arrested charged with stealing the money.

Police said they found part of the loot in La Pointe's home and the rest hidden in the cellar of DeCareau's house.

BOSTON LEADS in Relief Work

Boston is bearing the burden of its own "poor" better than any other city in the country, Paul V. Betters, director of the United States Conference of aMyors, disclosed today.

In his report embracing the 37 largest cities of the country, Betters pointed out that Boston, which spent $25,312,462 during 21 months, supplied $16,921,790 or 66.9 per cent as its share of relief expenditures.

SCHWAB AT 73 Has Quiet Birthday

New York, Feb. 18 (AP)—Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, observed his 73d birthday today at his office desk, caring for his normal "business routine."

The traditional interview to the press, for many years a feature of the day, was not granted.

Mr. Schwab motored to his office on lower Broadway, leaving his French chateau on Riverside drive shortly after 9 a. m. He will remain at the office until dinner time.

CUTTER AIDS Boston Trawler

Word was received early today by the Coast Guard that the fishing trawler Patrick J. O'Hara of Boston was in need of assistance, because of a cracked piston. The vessel has been on a fishing trip at Georges banks.

The cutter Ossipee was dispatched to the scene and is due to arrive at the side of the disabled vessel late this afternoon.

JOHN H. DOWD Has Pneumonia

City Councillor John H. Dowd of Roxbury contracted pneumonia at City Hospital where he was recovering from an operation which he underwent three weeks ago.

Hospital officials stated today that although he is very sick his condition is not alarming.

GLORIA VANDERBILT IS "TOILER" NOW

MRS. GLORIA VANDERBILT

GLORIA'S Mother Runs SHOP

ARRIVES ON JOB EARLY

By Associated Press

New York, Feb. 18—Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt went to work today.

The gay life portrayed by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's witnesses in the recent court fight over possession of Mrs. Vanderbilt's daughter, Gloria, 10, became a thing of the past—if it ever existed—when Mrs. Vanderbilt rose at 7 a. m.

At 9 she was interviewing models; at 10 she looked at dress fabrics. Then she gave instructions for the display of 75 gowns.

For her new role of business woman, Mrs. Vanderbilt was trimly dressed in plain black silk, with touches of white silk pique.

Adjusting the taffeta curtains in the rosewood and gray salon she designed Mrs. Vanderbilt said:

"I love this. I've always had an idea I'd really like to go in for designing as a serious business."

She said her shop would be "somewhat exclusive," would follow Paris trends, and would carry hats, but only wraps, ensembles and gowns.

"And everything," she said, "will be our own design."

12 HURT In Bus Crash IN NATICK

Two women and 10 men were injured today when a Boston-bound bus and truck collided on the Worcester turnpike at Natick.

Police said the bus skidded into the truck in an attempt to pass on the icy highway.

Mrs. Mary Land of Norwell street, Dorchester, was most seriously injured. She was taken to Leonard Morse hospital, with a possible fracture of the skull.

Bert Phillips of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., William Fitzpatrick of Little Falls, N. Y.; Forrest W. George of East street, Walpole, and Guarzano Divitro of Harrison avenue, Boston, suffered cuts and bruises.

Others injured were Joannes Deutshell of Germany, who had been visiting in Detroit; Mrs. Josephine Robbins of Columbus avenue, South End; Byron Carhart, North avenue, Albany, N. Y.; John S. Lennie of Detroit; Michael J. Kaiser of Altremont, N. Y.; Benjamin Durgin of Bridgeport, Ct., and Nicholas Seinnecii of Buffalo, N. Y.

BYRD Aid Weds on RETURN

PARTY BACK IN CIVILIZATION

By Associated Press

Dunedin, N. Z., Feb. 18—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd and the members of his Antarctic expedition returned today to civilization in an aura of romance.

After the expedition's flagship arrived here, Admiral Byrd's second-in-command, Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, and Miss Helen Gray were married.

Admiral Byrd gave the bride away.

Arrangements for the wedding were completed by wireless.

While Dr. Poulter was in the Antarctic Miss Gray was caring for his three children by a former marriage.

Admiral Byrd's first word was one of thankfulness that he had succeeded once again in leading his party homeward entirely safe and sound.

A the flagship approached shore, those on board the official launch which went out to welcome the returning explorers spied the ship's personnel clustered along the deck rail. Some were heavily bearded and crowned with flowing locks.

Admiral Byrd remained on the bridge smoking a pipe and waving his acknowledgement of the greeting.

Describing the expedition's work, Admiral Byrd said the primary purpose was to discover whether there is a connection between Marie Byrd land and the main antarctic continent.

As a result of the expedition's observations, he said, it has been definitely established such a connection exists.

Byrd said a great deal of scientific work of considerable value had been accomplished by the experts who accompanied him, but that the full results of these investigations will not be known for three or four years.

tives of one murdered really desire to see the murderer as he sits in the chair, straining against the straps and frothing behind the mask.

It is safe to predict that Colonel Lindbergh will reject the invitation to see Hauptmann put to death for the kidnaping and murder of his child. That is probably not Colonel Lindbergh's idea of a pleasant sight.

The Vanderbilts, Astors, Goelets and other old fashioned Americans, led this nation into the present era of MILLIONS. Before their day a man with $100,000 was "rich," had a house with a cupola on it, and a trotting horse.

Then, along came the big war, and the NRA and led us upward and onward into the realm of BILLIONS. Less than a billion is small change, now, in the government mind.

We all drew one deep breath, got used to billions, and now Senator Huey Long of Louisiana, taking us by the hand, gently leads us into the TRILLION era. What good friend of the "peepul" will raise that bid and move us on to the quadrillion stage?

Senator Huey Long's trillion is not imaginary. He tells the "circumambient air" via the radio, that while he will let the man who wants a great deal of money own as much as three million dollars, but no more, he is determined that every American shall have $15,000. That will be given to "each and all," at once.

Instantly we step up into the trillion stratosphere. Your little pencil will show you that fifteen thousand dollars for everybody in the United States would mean one trillion eight hundred and seventy-five billion dollars, or if you prefer, $1,875,000,000,000. The odd eight hundred and seventy-five billions are five times as much as the country is worth. But have we not printing presses?

When that stage is reached, we can say to Europe, "keep your old ten billion dollars. What do you think we care about ten billions?"

There are more than ten million men still out of work in the United States. A good many old-fashioned Americans saying "in these days you don't know what you've got, or if you do know, you don't know what it's worth."

The "share the wealth" ignoramuses would immediately destroy all values.

We have some interesting times and events ahead of us.

SAYS "OTHER MAN" KILLED HUSBAND

Author Roche Is Dead in Florida

By Associated Press

West Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 18—Arthur Somers Roche, the fictionist, died in his home here yesterday of a heart ailment.

Roche, who was 51 years old, had been ill only two weeks.

The author was known as one of the hardest workers among fiction writers, although he once said he hated work. He was unconventional in his ideas and never held to a prescribed pattern of thought.

The first story writted by Roche was sold for $6. His second went for $25 and then he began to sell his stories for better prices. During the past 20 years his writings were in constant demand.

Born in Somerville, Mass., Roche was a graduate of Boston University. For a few months he practiced law and then went into newspaper work. His fiction writing career began in 1910.

Roche was married twice. His first wife, who was Ethel Kirby Nowell of New York, died in 1910. His second wife, Ethel Pettit of Stuttgart, Ark., also an author, and two sons survive.

Private memorial services were arranged today at the home, with George Creel asked to deliver the eulogy. Burial will take place in Castine, Me.

MEASLES HITS 12 in Harvard House

A mild epidemic of German measles in Harvard's Kirkland House today confined 12 students to the college's Stillman Infirmary in Mt. Auburn street, Cambridge.

Dr. Paul H. Means, medical adviser to the college, said the outbreak had been restricted to the one Gold Coast dormitory. He had little fear that it might spread and assume the proportions of the serious outbreak in the Yard a year ago.

UNCORKS STUFFY NOSES IN 5 SECONDS

Doctors Recommending Extract Of Chinese Plant

When you have a head cold, thousands of tiny blood vessels in your nose swell up, choke off breathing and cork up your nostrils as tight as a bottle. You can't sleep well and it makes you feel miserable. But now—you can get relief in 5 quick seconds.

Thousands of years ago, Chinese medicine men discovered that one of their plants possessed almost magical powers in relieving nose and throat conditions. Today, after endless experiments, modern science has found a way to extract from this plant its most active ingredient, called Ephedrine. And, now, you and every other sufferer of head colds can get the wonderful benefits of Ephedrine in a scientific compound called Hill's Nose Drops.

In five seconds Hill's Nose Drops start to shrink swollen blood vessels in the nose. As they contract, passages open, mucus drains off and breathing is made easier. Now you understand why ordinary preparations that merely "oil" your nose cannot give the same relief. They don't hit at the real cause of clogged passages . . . nasal congestions. So, if you want "5 second relief" from head colds or the spasms of asthma or bronchitis, get a bottle of Hill's Nose Drops today. At all druggists, 35¢.

WIFE'S 'Joke' Held TOO NUDE

NEWTON MAN IN DIVORCE PLEA

It might have been a good joke on the guests, but her husband didn't view it a joke when Mrs. Florence E. "Betty" Wallace of Newton said she would show them her new bathing suit—and then revealed that she wore none.

The husband, William Wallace, Jr., insurance broker with an office at 40 Broad street, testified today in Middlesex Probate Court to the alleged incident in his former home in Langdon street, Newton.

Wallace, who seeks a divorce from the pretty former stage dancer and one-time femonine outboard-motor champion, names three men.

Appearing as the first witness, Wallace said his wife was wearing white, sailor-type trousers and a sweatshirt one day in July, 1933, while guests were in the house, and that she said she would like to show them her new bathing suit.

Names 3 "Rivals"

The broker said he was married to the former Betty Jones on April 12, 1924, in Worcester, and left the home in Newton finally last July because she was constantly drinking and abusing him and also because she was too friendly with Attorney Francis B. Turner of Waltham, Otis M. Slocum of Brookline and Edward Russell, a Quincy salesman.

Last September 24, after the separation, Wallace testified, he saw a car parked in front of his home. He entered with his latchkey and found his wife and Turner in a locked bedroom, he said.

Wallace had to telephone police, he testified, before his wif would open the door. Turner protested, the husband said, that he had understood the couple definitely to have separaed and promised never to see her again. Wallace said he told his wife he intended divorcing her, and then he left.

What Woman Saw

Under cross-examination, he admitted that he drinks moderately. He admitted also that he formerly was an amateur boxer, but denied he practiced on his wife.

Mrs. Miriam Doherty, now of 1056 Commonwealth avenue Allston, but once a neighbor in Newton, testified that one night during the winter of 1932-1933, Mrs. Wallace and Edward Russell were in the Doherty home as visitors.

They had been left together in the living room, Mrs. Doherty said, and when Mrs. Doherty next looked into the room she saw them in a compromising position, with the lights still on.

The case is unfinished.

COURT RULES FOR U. S. ON GOLD

DOLLAR Value STANDS

"NO LOSS" TO BONDHOLDERS

McReynolds' dissenting opinion was:

"The Constitution, as many of us have known it, is gone."

The first decision rendered was on the issue of private bonds, of which there were two cases before the court, one involving only $38.10 on a railroad bond.

Congress Upheld

It was that Congress was within its constitutional power in abrogating the gold clause contract in such bonds, because of its inherently constitutional power to regulate money and currency.

This meant that the holders of private bonds can be paid off in paper dollars (devalued dollars at present) and that they cannot collect in gold or its new equivalent.

This decision was rendered in the case of Norman C. Norman, a New York jeweler, against the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad.

Norman held a gold clause bond, which called for the payment of 22.50 interest from the railroad.

He refused to accept the payment on the ground that the bond called for gold or its equivalent in present dollars, which would be—at the old gold price—$38.10.

He lost his case.

The decision as affecting private bonds was immediately reaffirmed in the case of the Bankers Trust Co. of New York against the United States government.

It involved mortgages, secured by bonds, of the Missouri Pacific Railroad which contained promises to pay in gold at the old gold rate.

Again the Supreme Court held the railroad's bonds could be paid off in paper money.

The third case involved the government's own gold certificates. The court held their devaluation was constitutional.

This decision came on the case led by F. Eugene Nortz, who sued the government for payment of a gold certificate either in gold or with a 69 per cent premium in paper dollars.

Nortz surrendered $16,300 in gold certificates and was paid off in the same number of paper dollars.

The question raised was whether the government could refuse to redeem the gold certificates either in gold or at their former value in equivalents.

The Suppreme Court held the payment in paper dollars was constitutional.

In the Liberty bond case, the Supreme Court held that while the abrogation of the gold clause payment was invalid as a matter of law, John M. Perry, who brought the suit, could not collect in gold.

Perry held a $10,000 Liberty bond, issued in 1918. It was called for redemption on April 15, 1934. He demanded either $10,000 in gold or $16,931.25 in paper money.

The Treasury offered him $10,000 in paper money, which he refused.

He then brought suit in the Court of Claims for the $16,931.25. The lower court asked the Supreme Court to decide the constitutionality of the law in the question of his loss.

Showed No Loss

In this case the Supreme Court held the act invalid, but that Perry had shown no loss, which was the equivalent of a government victory.

Tense drama gripped the small, crowded courtroom, which once was the old Senate chamber, when the nine greying, black-robed justices, led by Chief Justice Hughes, mounted the long bench.

The small public section was crowded with senators, representatives, government officials, a few fortunate lawyers, and relatives of officials.

The Chief Justice, who two weeks ago smashed Supreme Court precedent by announcing that the court was not ready to announce its verdict at that time, broke precedent again today.

Within a few moments after taking his seat, and while a tense hush fell over the chamber, the grey-bearded Chief Justice announced the court's findings in all four cases before the court, and then proceeded to detail the lengthy supporting opinions.

GOLD DECISION

THE SUPREME COURT'S gold clause decision is expected soon. It may lower the price of gold. Play safe—sell now while the price is the highest in 100 years.

5 Questions

AND SUPREME COURT'S RULING ON THEM

Five issues decided by Supreme Court in gold clause cases:

(1) Had the government the right to take gold that was the property of private persons and corporations without paying for it in currency at a figure corresponding to the worth of the gold in the open market?

YES.

(2) Had the government the right to take gold which was held in trust behind gold certificates, thereby nullifying the trust character of the relationship as between itself and the holder of the certificates?

YES.

(3) Had the government the right to terminate or cancel the obligation of contract involved in the so-called "gold clause agreements" embodied in corporation bonds, personal notes and other instruments?

YES.

(4) Had the government the power to abrogate its own gold clause contracts embodied in Liberty bonds, notes, etc.?

NO.

But since the holders of such bonds and notes did not suffer loss they are denied the right of redress. Which saves the government from payments in gold and equivalent currency at the rate of $1.69 for each dollar borrowed.

(5) Assuming that the obligation to pay gold could be abrogated in so far as the gold itself was concerned, does our constitutional law require a settlement in something else (currency) at a figure corresponding to the theoretical gold value of the metal that had been promised?

NO.

STOCKS Boom on GOLD RULING

corporation issues as well, which contained the gold clause, slipped back a little when it became clear holders could not collect at the equivalent of the old dollar. U. S. Government issues without the gold clause advanced moderately.

Foreign gold currencies, which had dropped to sharp discounts in terms of the dollar, on fears that the decision might result in a dollar of greater value, quickly rallied to close to their parities.

Gold Shares Rise

The decision came too late to affect principal European markets, and in any case was not thought to have much bearing upon them. Securities prices sagged in Paris, and were narrowly changed in London.

Canadian markets followed the American markets, however. Gold mining shares led in upturn in Toronto, and prive advanced in Montreal.

Cotton at New York jumped about $1.25 a bale, before losing part of its gain, and registered a similar upswing at New Orleans.

Sugar, coffee, hides, cottonseed oil and other minor staples were mostly higher.

Grain Prices Leap, Then Boards Close

By Associated Press

Chicago, Feb. 18—Wheat and grain prices scored a jump of more than two cents a bushel in lively trading today after gold clause cases were decided. Immediate announcement was then made that the Board of Trade would be closed until further notice.

How long the market would be closed was not immediately announced. President Robert P. Boylan, using powers granted him several days ago, issued the order that halted dealings in the grain pits and then officials of the board studied the decision in the various cases ruled on by the court.

At news of the decision prices immediately jumped to gains of 2 cents above Saturday's finish and of around 3 cents above the early low points today.

The last prices written on the blackboard showed May wheat at 98¾, compared with a previous close of 97½-⅝, and May corn at 89 compared wtih 86⅛-¼.

While brokers clustered about bulletin boards and tickers on the floor avidly reading dispatches telling of the court's rulings, all other market activity ceased.

Cleveland, Feb. 18 (AP)—Stock prices on the Cleveland Stock Exchange advanced about one point generally shortly after the Supreme Court's gold decision was announced today.

"Our board will not be affected materially for a day or two," said one official of the exchange.

St. Louis, Feb. 18 (INS)—Trading on the St. Louis Merchants' Exchange today was suspended "until further notice" immediateiy after the gold decisions were announced.

Kansas City, Feb. 18 (INS)—The Kansas City Board of Trade announced it was closing "temporarily" today following the gold ruling.

Minneapolis, Feb. 18 (AP)—Grain trading at the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce was suspended "until further notice" today following the gold decision. Prices shot up before operations were stopped.

PLAINTIFF Amazed Over GOLD RULING

By Associated Press

New York, Feb. 18—Norman C. Norman plaintiff in the private bonds gold clause issue which the supreme court decided in favor of the government, said he was "flabbergasted" by the ruling.

Norman, a manufacturing jeweler, said the justices' opinion was "beyond comprehension" to him and declared it "makes a private contract just about useless."

"My immediate reaction," he said, "is that if the B. and O. has won then no private individual may expect he has any right to protect himself from money manipulation and currency deflation by the government."

Norman's case involved a Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bond which specified gold interest payments.

ROOSEVELT In Parley on GOLD RULING

By Associated Press

Washington, Feb. 18—Soon after the Supreme Court decision in the gold case cases today, President Roosevelt conferred at length with Attorney General Cummings, Secretary Morgenthau and Secretary Hull.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, also arrived at the White House. There was no sign of any administration action, however.

DOLLAR Weakens ABROAD

STOCKS BOOM IN FOREIGN MARTS

By Associated Press

London, Feb. 18—American dollars weakened considerably on the London market today, dropping to 4.89 after an official close of 4.86 13-16, owing to the gold clause decision of the Supreme Court of the United States.

Among the gold currencies French francs were readily supported at 73¾.

Owing to different decisions in government and private bond cases, financial circles here were waiting to see whether President Roosevelt can accept the court's opinions and what legislative measures may be taken.

The decisions did not surprise "the city" which had been impatiently awaiting it. Regardless of the outcome, it was felt here the sooner a decision were made, the better it would be for trade.

The continued delays in rendering the verdict were getting on the nerves of financial circles which pointed out the uncertainty meant slowing up American business.

There was much excitement in the "street market" this evening when the result became known.

Nickel rose one point to 24⅛. Tractions improved to 10. Canadian Pacific rose to 12 9-16.

Boom in Canada

Montreal, Feb. 18 (AP)—Traders sprang to life on the Montreal Stock Exchange today with the gold decision announcement of the United States Supreme Court and a flood of buying orders sent listings soaring.

Wheat Prices Up

Winnipeg, Feb. 18 (AP)—Wheat prices on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange shot upwards in the wake of an advancing Chicago market following the Supreme Court's gold decision today.

Toronto Prices Soar

Toronto, Feb. 18 (AP)—Prices shot upward on the Toronto exchange on announcement of the decision on the United States gold clause. Mining issues advanced 10 to 20 per cent and heavy advances were chalked up in the industrials.

The liquor issues on the industrial section advanced up to 2 points each and smaller gains were recorded for Ford A, Nickel, Brazilian and the other active interlisted issues.

Lake Shore jumped 50 cents, Hollinger $1.50, Teck Hughes 10, Wright Hargreaves 20 cents and group gains were shown in the medium price list.

Reichsbank Called

Berlin, Feb. 18 (AP)—Leaders of the Reichsbank today considered the United States Supreme Court gold decisions so important that they called a meeting to discuss it.

Quiet in Paris

Paris, Feb. 18 (AP)—The gold clause decision of the United States Supreme Court failed to disturb financial circles here today, for fear of the decision's effect on the gold bloc nations was balanced by confidence that the United States administration, if necessary, would get remedial legislation.

WOMEN Besiege COURT

GOLD DECISION DRAWS CROWD

By Associated Press

Washington, Feb. 18—Certainty that the Supreme Court would decide the gold cases today tinged Washington with a suspense akin to historic moments in the nation's past.

Crowds besieged the court corridor in vain attempt to gain admission to the session.

Relatives and friends of the nine justices were among the fortunate few who were seated.

Mrs. Charles Evans Hughes arrived at 11:25 and was ushered to a seat, accompanied by a woman cousin of former Justice Sanford.

Mrs. Morgenthau, wife of the secretary of the treasury, also came in with a friend. They took seats on a bench occupied entirely by women.

Other notables who arrived included Mrs. Owen J. Roberts, wife of the associate justice, with two friends.

Beck Present

Other arrivals were James M. Beck, former Solicitor-General and former Representative, and Francis Biddle, head of the National Labor Relations Board.

Every minute brought more into the chamber. The marshal and deputies appeared to grow harassed by the requests for seats.

A deputy was heard to say to an attendant:

"I'm in a hell of a fix."

Chief Justice Hughes went into the robing rom at 11:50 to prepare himself for what most spectators consider to be one of the most significant incidents in American jurisprudence today. He spoke briefly to acquaintances in the corridor.

Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio arrived, accompanied by Francis M. Pulson, chairman of the Ohio Democratic committee.

Like a Theater

As the chamber filled—at 11:35—the buzz of conversation rose in volume and the scene resembled a theater before a play. President Roosevelt in his office, legislators in Congress, taxi drivers, curious Capitol throngs and even janitors of public buildings evidently had the historic possibilities in mind.

Secretary Morgenthau—in charge of New Deal monetary policies—and Secretary Hull—who would have to sign any presidential proclamation—were asked to lunch with the President.

Premiere Given "The Drunkard"

By GEORGE HOLLAND

Given the kind of an audience that it had at its Copley Theater premiere, "The Drunkard, of the Fallen Saved," is one of the best comedies of the year.

The audience of "The Drunkard" matters very much. Saturday night's was conglomerate, alert, appreciative and in good voice. And, of major importance to the success of "The Drunkard," it left its self-consciousness, that audience, outside the theater.

George Holland

Through its timely aid, "The Drunkard" managed to find such cascades of laughter sounding off the Copley Theater's walls that a rubbing-of-eyes was in order occasionally to make sure that Victor Moore and his pal "put-put" hadn't suddenly sneaked through the stage door for a reading of the best bits of "Anything Goes."

Yes, sir. That was an audience. Blades and debs from city and suburbs, merchant princes from the department-store belt, and a smattering of what Cholly Knickerbocker calls the "camphor set" were among those present.

I saw a dowager get so excited in her hissing of Squire Cribbs, played by Frank McMunn, that she dropped her teeth. There were other amusing incidents. Such as the baiting of the bartender (he was called Landlord a hundred years ago), by one of the audience.

One of the saddest scenes of "The Drunkard" occurs when the landlord is about to eject the prostrate hero, who has passed out on the floor.

"Let him alone!" shouted the sympathetic patron of the first-night audience. "You sold it to him, didn't ya?"

The audience responded to every gesture of the actors. Cheers at times when the hero or heroine made a noble speech drowned out the dialogue of the next few speeches. Squire Cribbs made every entrance and exit to the accompaniment of boos and hisses.

A veteran of those old Hoboken days, when Throckmorton, Morley and Gribble staged "The Fatal Wedding" and "The Black Crook" over in Hoboken, making that Jersey hamlet an extension of 42d street in one of the most prosperous ventures of the latter-day theater, I do not remember a more resounding welcome to a set of actors than the one given at the Copley Saturday night.

"The Drunkard" may become the thing to see. I felt sure that it would be when it was reported that Mama Berle, Milton Berle's devoted mother, was holding her sides with, or from, laughter. Mama Berle laughs infrequently, except at Milton.

"Well, well, Mama Berle," she was greeted. "You seem to be enjoying yourself."

"Am I? Am I?" was Mama Berle's answer. "I should say I am. I just looked at my watch and Milton's on at Keith's Memorial."

"The Virginia Judge" Will Be Released Soon

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Copyright, 1935, by Universal Service

Los Angeles, Feb. 18—At the crack of dawn Charlie Rogers was on the telephone to tell me the greatest thing in pictures since the advent of Will Rogers is Walter C. Kelly.

"Why," said Charlie in a breathless voice, "you should see him and Andy Clyde in 'McFadden's Flats'—they are magnificent, stupendous, colossal."

Louella O. Parsons

All of which was Charlie's modest way of telling me that Walter C. Kelly has signed with him, also Andy Clyde, for "The Virginia Judge."

But kidding on the square, Kelly, whose "Virginia Judge" is as well known as the Gold Dust Twins in vaudeville and on the air, should be very interesting in the character he created. Arthur Caesar and Eddie Kaufman are writing the scenario.

Max Baer won't make a picture for Paramount. The new heads on the Paramount lot, I am reliably informed, have voted against it. Max, they figure, is a champion in the fight ring but they are not so sure he will be a movie box office draw. Max, who wants to go to Europe anyway, has settled with Paramount for a sum reported as close to $50,000. That's lots of money without making a picture.

Hal Wallis is very emphatic in his statement that Warner Brothers are planning a drive to get better stories for Kay Francis. Hal says they are acquiring plays, one by one, suitable for her so that they will have a list to choose from. A few days ago "I Found Stelle Parrish," the dramatic story of an actress by John Monk Saunders was purchased with Kay in mind. It's now being adapted by Mary McCall, Jr., and will follow "Lady With a Badge."

The pretty young daughter of Mrs. Clark Gable, Georgina Lucas, will be married early in April to Dr. Tommy Burke of Houston, Texas. Rea took a trip to Texas to meet Dr. Burke while Clark was on location and she gave her consent and approval after meeting the popular young man, who is a rising young doctor, in Houston. Georgina is still in Texas and she will return shortly to get ready for her wedding which will be a simple, quiet affair at the Brentwood home of the Gables.

Chatter in Hollywood: "How could you think," wires Francis Lederer, "that I would abandon Mary Anita Loos for any woman?" Francis says somebody was doubling for him and that he did not lunch with Wera Engels. Well, it's a good thing that we stated that it was reported to us, but we doubted the gossip. Funny about Wera Engels and Mary Anita Loos. I don't think they look a bit alike but several people on different occasions have telephoned that Francis was stepping out with Miss Engels who up to now hasn't been seen with anybody in our town but Ivan Lebedeff.

Snapshots of Hollywood

Shades of Hollywood sophistication, the chief topic of conversation at the JOHN CONSIDINES' anniversary dinner was babies; MRS. GARDNER SULLIVAN, out for the first time since she had the flu; ANN, CARMEN PANTAGES and MRS. DARRYL ZANUCK went into a big discussion on the personality of new babies; interesting, too; MRS. SAMUEL GOLDWYN entertaining with a dinner on Tuesday just before she leaves for New York; she and SAM will go on to Europe on business and a holiday; the Cocoanut Grove crowded to the doors at the opening of the Guy Lombardo orchestra; the M. H. AYLESWORTHS entertained with a party of six; the PHILIPPINE GOVERNOR MURPHY with the ROY NEWBERTS; DOLORES DEL RIO and her party, BERT WHEELER and JOE E. BROWN getting photographed again and again; MRS. EDDIE MANNIX had a table of guests; SUE CAROL devoting herself to HOWARD WILSON and JAMES CROFTON to his ex-wife, MONA RICA, is proof that the CAROL-CROFTON romance is no more; JAMES CAGNEY'S curls put on with an iron each day for "Midsummer Night's Dream," getting a rib from all Cagney's pals; KAY JOHNSON and RANDY SCOTT singing hymn after hymn on the set of "Village Tale"; the whole company joining in the refrain while Kay is at the organ; the ANDY CLYDES giving a preview of their nursery, which is soon to have an occupant. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Prodigy Triumphs

Ruth Slenczynski Gives Concert

By JOYCE DANA

Ten-year-old Ruth Slenczynski played the piano before a capacity audience at Symphony Hall Saturday afternoon.

Heralded as the prodigy of the day, the amazing little artist more than exceeded the advance hosannas in the brilliance of her technical equipment. Through a long and trying program, she achieved the miraculous in the facility of her small fingers, in the stupendous crescendos and climaxes which brought her bouncing from her perch on the edge of the piano stool.

From the Bach Prelude which opened the program, through Beethoven's C minor Variations, a performance of Mendelssohn's "Rondo Capriccioso," taken at dizzying speed, works of Schumann, Schubert, Slenczynski and Chopin to the inevitable Liszt's "Campanella," there was never a moment's hesitation in encompassing the most difficult passages.

In the Chopin F Major Nocturne, as well as in his B flat Minor Sonata there was evidence of some finely sustained tone, a singing legato, a feeling for the musical content.

Unfortunately the little girl's programs must be arranged to exploit her quite remarkable genius. It would seem wiser, however, to steer her away from the purely showy, to foster and cultivate a repose that she quite naturally lacks, and to confine her keyboard expression to simpler material.

There was occasionally too great a temptation to overemphasize phrasing, to make contrasts in tone too marked, and to hurry far too breathlessly to a climax. These deficiencies can be easily overcome; it would be strange indeed to find them lacking.

For the present tour, which it is reported will bing $75,000 into the family coffers, the present type of program is inevitable. The more rapid the scales and arpeggios, the more resounding the tremendous chords, the more enthusiastic was Saturday's audience.

Elman Returns

People's Orchestra Also Scores

By ANN AMES

A small and friendly audience was well rewarded for braving the storm yesterday afternoon to hear Mischa Elman, one of America's most noted violinists, at Symphony Hall.

An absence of several seasons brings Mr. Elman before us at the height of his mature powers. Never a program-maker, making no concessions and no compromises, the artist's appeal has been for the most part for musicians themselves, who find in him a violinist of rare accomplishment.

Disregarding lighter program numbers he devoted himself yesterday afternoon to the graceful and melodious Sonata in D major by Pietro Nardini; the profound measures of Beethoven's "Kreutzer" Sonata; Max Bruch's G minor Concerto, the only slightly more modern offering; and the exciting and strongly rhythem "Ballade et Polonaise" by Henri Vieuxtemps.

Mr. Elman's unflagging artistry contributed to one of the most satisfying musical afternoons of the season. His approach is that of a virtuoso, his tones are rich and full.

Mr. Vladimir Padwa, at the piano, rightfully shared in the applause which brought both artists back to the platform at the close for several encores.

The presence of Maria Koussevitzky as soloist and the first Boston performance of Roger Session's suite for Andreyev's "The Black Masters," brought added distinction to the program of the Peoples Symphony Orchestra at Jordan Hall yesterday afternoon.

Mme. Koussevitzky, in private life the wife of the Peoples conductor, Fabien Sevitzky, sang Lia's aria from Debussy's "L'Enfant Prodigue." Her lyric soprano was at its best in this charming music.

Mr. Sevitzky and his players gave the complicated Sessions score an accurate reading.

Guide to New Books -:- By Miles Alden

JAYHAWKER—A play by Sinclair Lewis and Lloyd Lewis—Doubleday, Doran.

Every now and then New York theatrical audiences display their lack of discrimination, not by enjoying a thoroughly third-rate play, but by failing to respond to the appeal of a really good one.

There can be little doubt that "Jayhawker" is more original in theme, more soundly based on history and better written than almost anything else currently on the stage. Why it should fail at the box office is something that we will leave George Holland to explain.

There can be no thought of failure when the opus is considered as reading matter. Authored by the sire of Main Street and the Chicago Daily News' dramatic critic and Civil War authority, it is a story of the bloody Kansas-Missouri line just before the Civil War, and of the war itself—in Washington and at the front.

In "Ace" Burdette, the Jayhawker border raider and crooked senator, the authors have painted one of the most interesting of American characters. That his only failure should come when he decides to be unselfish and save the Union and its soldiers makes a capital story.

PASTRY MAKES 50 Persons Ill

Pittsfield, Feb. 18—Police and health experts were checking with a Springfield bakery today to learn what ingredients in a shipment of pastry had made 50 persons ill here.

In each instance the disorders, which sent several of the victims to St. Luke's Hospital, were traced to cream puffs or eclairs which had been bought from the Springfield company, police said.

GAMING CHARGE Faced by 24

Twenty-four men faced arraignment in Roxbury district court today as the result of police raids on gambling places.

Seventeen were arrested in a raid on the Columbus A. A., a club in Heath street, where police say they were playing poker at four tables. Seven were arrested in a basement on Blue Hill avenue.

MAN KILLED As Train Hits Auto

West Burke, Vt., Feb. 18—David J. Donaldson, 45, a one-armed garage proprietor of Lyndonville, was killed here as the auto he was driving was struck by a southbound Canadian Pacific freight train.

The accident occurred at a blind crossing on a back road. The machine was demolished and Donaldson died instantly.

Dearest Anne:

Need a "Pick-Me-Up?"

Here's one that's better than two of your favorite cocktails—the marvelous new Masque Frappe, created by Dorothy Gray. It's not a cleansing cream, not a tissue cream, it's a complete Facial in one jar! All you do is cleanse your face, spread on the masque—let it dry. It's composed of two layers—one of rich oils, that penetrate and stimulate sluggish pores—the other a creamy clay that dries to protect the oils while at work. When the facial is over—the clay cracks open, just like an alarm clock, and lo! your skin's as fresh as a daisy—and as smooth and young as a baby's! There are 14 treatments, or facials, in one jar, all for $3. You'll find the "Masque Frappe" in the Walnut Room on the Street Floor of R. H. White's.

Beautiful Eyes May Vary In Type

and coloring. Their expression, too, may run the gamut of moods—dreamy — mischievous — sophisticated — roguish — unfathomable — quizzical—each has its charm. But, to all of them, one thing is essential — daily care — if they are to remain lovely through the years; or, if neglected, be restored to the radiance of youth. Have you noticed that the eyes — the most expressive and magnetic of the features—are the first to give warning that beauty is on the wane? And is it any wonder when they're subjected to the demands of modern life — irritated by sun, wind and dust—strained by brilliant lights? Resolve today to take daily care of your eyes so they'll remain youthful and lovely. I'll tell you how to do it. In Filene's Toiletries Shop you'll find the Quinlan Eye Kit which contains the four eye preparations essential for the daily care of the eyes. This Eye foursome is Eye Bath—cleanses, soothes and strengthens tired, irritated eyes. Eye Cream—helps to keep the tissues about the eyes free from lines and wrinkles. Eye Packs—fragrant sachets of rare crushed herbs and flower petals. They bring relief to eyes that are tired—strained—bloodshot—or puffy. Eye Astringent—tones and firms the tissues and skin around the eyes. Invigorates strained muscles; prevents their relaxing and forming lines about the eyes. The Quinlan Eye Kit is only $3.75—or you may buy these preparations separately in Filene's Toiletries Shop, street floor.

New Thrills! New Values! More Excitement—

for Scott Furriers have added more coats to choose from in their original, Unique Fur Coat Party! Is it any wonder all New England is talking about this sensational Fur Coat Party? Savings are so remarkable that to quote comparative prices would seem a gross exaggeration. Just go in and see them—you'll be glad you did! For the fur coats in this party are not the ordinary type—each and every one measures up to the usual Scott standards of quality and carries the usual unrestricted Scott guarantee. And imagine—there are coats worn by famous stars—floor and sample models—their Style Show coats marked at $27—$47—$67 and $117 and up! Here are a few examples of their thrilling values—Lapin jackets, $14—Seal-dyed Coney, $47—Rich Caracul, $47—Beige Squirrel, $67, and Genuine Persian Lamb, $117. And these are just a few of the hundreds marked at from $27 to $297 and up, priced according to the fur. While you're there—do look at the adorable Spring song suit sketched—it's a knockout—and only $19.75. And best of all if it's inconvenient for you to pay cash, enjoy the convenience of a charge account through the famous Scott Unique Payment Club (registered), the only one in New England. Take your purchases home without delay or inconvenience. Wear them while paying in small weekly or monthly amounts. There are no extra or carrying charges for this service. Sharlene Worried

CHAPTER 31

THE DIRTY dishes stood on the table, waiting to be washed. The nicked glasses. Memories of home-made dresses too skimpy for lack of material. Ratty fur coat it took years to pay for . . .

She opened the contract and fascinating figures swam before her eyes. There it was in black and white: $500 and then $750—a week! ! ! If she made good, they'd give her a contract for several thousands a week! ! ! Furs, clothes, jewels, social life, power!

She tucked the contract away in her makeup box and went to Stuart, clinging to his hands, smiling at him.

"Never mind, darling, you're sore because of the raw deal that's been handed you. And I don't blame you a bit. We won't talk about getting married—now. Lots can happen before I get to be a star, anyhow."

Mr. and Mrs. Kent Damerell commuted back and forth across the land in airplanes and across the seas on fast liners, following the sports and tournaments and seasons of the fashionable world. Sharlene was accustoming herself to abrupt changes in Kent's schedules as the whim seized him. They rarely came back to California. Kent liked the south of France better.

So, when Kent went tarpon fishing off the coast of Florida, Sharlene went, too, not because she enjoyed the tremendous battle with the fish, but merely because he wanted her with him. They set out with a guide, one dark night, when the sky was overcast, in a rowboat.

They anchored under the shadow of a beautiful key, covered with mangroves. Kent sat there for hours, tense and alert, watching his light rod and line, lighter than most, because he liked heavy odds against him when he fought a fish.

Sharlene curled up and slept most of the time, but roused toward morning to consider the far-off lonely stars.

Presently she turned her head and glanced at Kent. "Never mind watching for that old fish, Beloved. Something far more marvelous is happening!"

"Stars and Dawn"

"I'd say—it was the result of parental will and good luck."

"I didn't ask why. I asked: What for?"

"There's an answer to that, too, but this is hardly the place to demonstrate or the time—"

His lazy, smiling mien vanished as he felt a slight tug at his line. He leaned forward, breathless. Sharlene shared his moment of excitement, but presently they both relaxed again to wait.

She sighed gently. "Stars—and the dawn coming—they make me think—"

"Don't! Leave that to the brainy ones who aren't as ornamental as you are. If you want to know what you were made for—why to be my wife! How's that?"

She reached up and kissed him fervently. "I know it, and it's good enough for me!"

Sharlene meant that with all her heart. She wanted to make up to him for the lost years, for her lack of faith. She longed to blend herself into his personality.

Kent was happily unaware of his status of hero. He would have been embarrassed and annoyed if he had known. But he was having a good time.

It was a golf tournament which took them to New Orleans some time later. Sharlene slipped away, during an afternoon when Kent was not playing, to prowl about by herself in the old French Quarter. He preferred to trail the players over the green.

She left the taxicab on Canal street and drifted down Chartres on foot into the heart of ancient dreams. The old town drowsed under a warm sun.

She drifted into an antique shop and pored over exquisite hand-painted French fans, that once screened laughing eyes.

Out in the street again, walking idly down Toulouse, she stopped to admire a fan window. A young man, bareheaded, smoking a pipe, sauntered down the street toward her, towed by an active little wire-haired pup. The young man stopped casually beside Sharlene and regarded the window with the affectionate interest of a proprietor.

Admires Art

"Very nice," he pronounced it, "but have you seen the fan windows in the Claiborne House patio?"

Sharlene glanced at him and replied in his own pleasant casual key: "No, I haven't ventured into these patios, except the Arts and Crafts one."

"Then you must come to the Claiborne House—the Art League's there, too. Interested in art?"

"Oh, yes," she said with spontaneous enthusiasm.

The young man smiled with growing eagerness. He could not fail to see that she was a tourist with money to spend. He conducted her first through the Claiborne House flagstoned porte-cochere to the rear garden wall. Then he bade her turn around and look up.

They were very beautiful fan windows, and wild ferns grew in the chinks surrounding them.

The young man turned out to be Peter Hartt.

Several artists followed them when he took Sharlene to his own studio. She admired his work and petted his dog, and felt very happy and at home.

"You'll want to look closely at this," Hartt said as he handed her an unframed canvas. He had painted an iron lace balcony silhouetted in the foreground, and through it one looked down on the dreamy, sun-drenched street.

"Hartt's detail on that grille," volunteered one of the other artists, "reminds me of the Rembrandtesque manner of Stuart Pennington—"

"Oh!" exclaimed Sharlene involuntarily.

"End of Him"

"Yes, oh, yes," stammered Sharlene in confusion.

"What became of him? He was almost a sensation a couple of years ago, but he hasn't done anything since."

Sharlene was silent, her face scarlet. She pretended to be studying the picture in her hands.

"Oh," Peter Hartt said carelessly, "I heard he married a rich wife. Of course, that was the end of him."

Tears blurred Sharlene's eyes suddenly. She was thinking fiercely. "It shall not be the end of him!"

"I—" she said desperately, "I think I'll buy this picture. Please send it to the St. Charles. I'll make out a check. How much?"

"Well," said Hartt with trepidation, but daring because of the tears in her eyes, "I hoped to get three hundred for it—but—"

Hartt glanced down at the check. "Sharlene Damerell," he read.

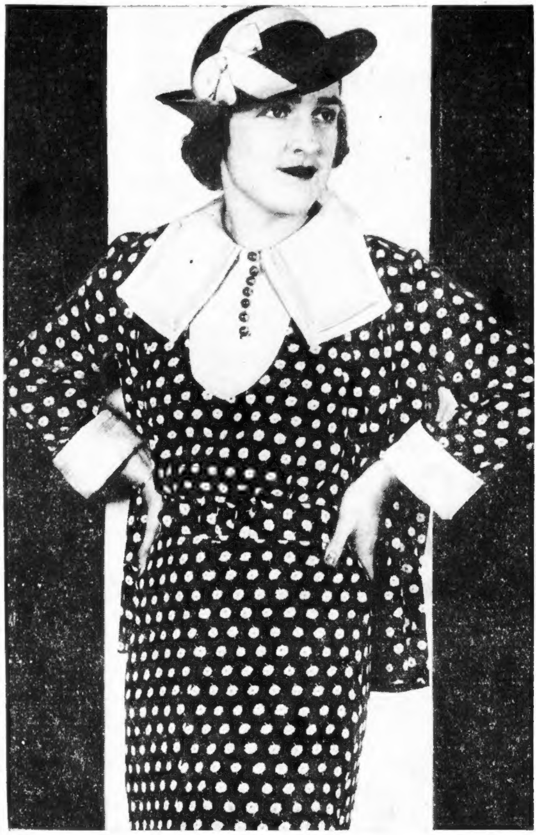
"Damerell? Damerell?" The one who had seen Stuart's work searched his memory. Then his face cleared. "Sharlene Damerell—she was Sharlene Standring and she married the painter, Pennington—"

When Kent got back to the hotel that evening, he found Sharlene unwrapping the picture she had bought. She set it up on the table and bade him stand off and admire it.

Let's go to Antoine's for dinner and I'll show you the loveliest balcony you ever saw!"

Continued Tomorrow.

Pink on Brown



By Annice Brink

LINEN on pure silk—and in a budget crepe suit under sixteen dollars! If you're sensitive to good workmanship . . . if you value pure silk . . . and at the same time insist on a full share of smartness, you're going to be more than interested in this jacketed frock printed with misty pink flowers on a brown ground. There's Regency influence in the tabbed misty pink linen collar stitched in brown, with a tiny vestee buttoned by transparent rose buttons. The brown straw hat banded with grosgrain ribbon fits snugly at the back of the head and swoops out in front.

If you wish for information on either the suit or hat, both from a Boston shop, 'phone Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, LIBerty 4000, or write her at the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LEE REVEALS REASON FOR ATTACK

CHAPTER 271

SOMETHING IN Lillian's inflections and in the expression of her face, as she said she could see the "Chief" did not altogether agree with her that Lee Chow was shamming insanity, found a response in my own brain.

It was a conclusion to which I already had come, as I saw my father's fingers begin to drum more quickly upon the arms of his chair and I waited breathlessly with her for his reply.

He waited a full half minute before answering, while the drumming fingers perceptibly slowed their motion. When he finally spoke there was a puzzled inflection in his voice which I have rarely heard in my father, essentially a man of clear-cut decisions and fixed opinions.

SHAMMING INSANITY?

"Frankly, I am more puzzled even than I was a few hours ago, when Hugh first consulted me about the matter," he began.

My pulses leaped at this confirmation of my own theory that Hugh had warned my father against Lee Chow, but I managed to keep my face from giving any index of my belief.

"I know I shall not be betraying a confidence," my father went on, when I tell you that Hugh for several days has observed that Lee Chow has been acting and talking in puzzling fashion. I think Hugh would have attributed the change in him to insanity at once, had it not been for the extreme lucidity with which Lee Chow approached the subject which appeared to be obsessing him.

"To put it baldly," my father went on, "Lee Chow has been saying to Hugh that anyone could see Richard's treatment of you was so cruel that you could not be expected to stand it much longer."

"What?" I gasped indignantly.

My father put up a protesting hand.

"Remember that this theory is only a product of Lee Chow's brain, either actually disordered, or twisted by his affection for Hugh and his Oriental viewpoint of the status of women, unchanged despite his Occidental education. No one else puts the slightest credence in such balderdash."

MADGE WOULD BE FREE!

"I can't bear that even an insane person should hold such a theory," I said emphatically, and my father nodded comprehendingly.

"It is disturbing," he said, "but we must face it; and the corollary, which Lee Chow also stated to Hugh."

He paused, and I fought to keep my cheeks from crimsoning, for the remembrance of what the old wounded henchman of Lee Chow had said to me had prepared me for the words which I was sure he was about to utter.

"Lee Chow also told Hugh that he believed if you once were taken away from your husband and delivered into Hugh's keeping, you would realize that Hugh and not Richard was your real mate."

I sprang to my feet with eyes aflame as well as my cheeks.

"And Hugh listened to such ravings, and dared to repeat it to you!" I cried.

"Steady, girl!" Lillian's cool hands were upon mine, pushing me back into my chair, and her equally cool voice, holding no note whatever of indignation, was calming me in spite of myself.

"I cannot blame you for your re-action, my darling," my father said slowly, "but I think in justice to Hugh you ought to remind yourself that never since we have known him has he been guilty of crassness, such as this disclosure would be had he not the gravest reasons for revealing it."

"I know," I said contritely. "I do not wish to misjudge him. But why should he have thought it necessary to tell you this?"

Shaving Accessories

By JULIET SHELBY

IF YOU WILL listen to Alice White, you will learn what men like in the way of shaving accessories. She claims her success in marriage is due to keeping eye and ear open for things that will please friend husband.

Alice says, and I agree with her, that if you will actually buy a shaving set for a man, and put it on the bathroom shelf, he will glory in the use of it. Men, the poor darlings, are so frightened at the thought of being called sissy if they go in for anything attractive, no matter how efficient or necessary it might be, that they actually deny themselves the comforts of home.

See to it that the man of the house has a few shaving aids that will make him less exasperated with himself and more chummy over the breakfast table. Surprise him by placing before his very eyes a shaving bowl of old ivory, filled with a delightful soap, and a matching powder shaker that contains powder blended to masculine skin-tones.

The quick-lathering soap and the soothing powder are lightly scented—something, believe it or not, men really enjoy. The set can stay put on the bathroom shelf or can be packed in a jiffy, for the bowl has a fitted lid and the powder container has an adjustable sifter.

If you care to learn the names of these products, call Miss Shelby at Liberty 4000, or write to her at the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a personal reply.

Beauty Answers

Question: I am a daily reader of the column and would like to have the recipe for the home-made bronze-henna shampoo. My hair used to be very lovely, but something has happened to it lately, and it has lost its color and sheen. My eyes are very deep set. What can you suggest to make them appear larger?

Rose R., Boston.

Answer: I will be very glad to let you have my bronze-henna leaflet if you will write to me again, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Letters without necessary return postage cannot be answered personally. I think this shampoo will bring out the high lights in your hair, if your hair is dark brown. It is quite safe to use. Have you ever tried eye make-up. An eye shadow applied lightly to the upper lid only, and blended delicately, will make your eyes appear larger and less deep-set.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX GIVES ADVICE ON LOVE

If Doubt Clouds Happiness

IT'S A joyous matter to be engaged to a man with whom you are intensely in love.

Or it ought to be.

It goes without saying that a girl whose parents are alive and well ought never to have to concern herself with the character or past record of the man she expects to marry. Even in this indifferent and careless age, when parents have become, I admit, pretty nearly invisible in their daughters' universe, I cannot imagine a father's omitting the most careful investigation of a propose? son-in-law.

We can see, however, what has happened in the family of "Bride-To-Be," a young correspondent who is superlatively in love, yet tortured by secret doubt.

"My fiance is from the west," she says, "and has no immediate family. He is charming, considerate, handsome, in fact adorable. Even my parents, particularly my mother, are wild over him. Why am I not perfectly happy?

"It's just that somebody dropped a little hint about him that I can't forget, yet don't dare follow up. We have accepted everything he has told us. He must be all right. I hate myself for admitting any doubt.

"But suppose I found out after marriage that he wasn't what he says he is? And let me add that my father is well-to-do."

This girl's parents have been bought off, so to speak, by the pleasant ways of their would-be son-in-law. But the daughter must have a brother, uncle, cousin, or reliable experienced friend. To one of these persons she must explain her predicament, for her fiance's sake as well as her own. And the wedding must not take place until that little shadow of a doubt is completely brushed away—if it can be.

Bridge

By MRS. CULBERTSON

It is almost superfluous for me to say that the knowledge of when to pass is just as valuable as the knowledge when to bid.

On the hand below the East player decided to get "fancy" in the bidding of the hand, and South shrewdly allowed him to hang himself.

East, dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

North:
♡ Q 8 3
◇ 10 9 7 6 5
♣ 10 8 7 5

West:
♠ J 6
♡ A J 9 6
◇ K J 8 4 3
♣ J 6

East:
♠ 10 8
♡ K 7 2
◇ A Q 2
♣ A K Q 3 2

South:
♠ A K Q 7 5 4 3 2
♡ 10 5 4

East	South	West	North
1 N T (1)	Pass (2)	2 ◇	Pass
2 ♠ (3)	Pass (4)	3 ♡	Pass
3 N T (5)	Pass (6)	Pass	Pass

(1) The only excuse East had to offer for this atrocious bid was his desire to become Declarer since his partner was a weak player. The bid, of course, is still inexcusable.

(2) South, with a practically solid spade suit, can well afford to await developments. He can decisively defeat the opposing no-trump contract or if the opponents get to a suit he can then sacrifice in spades.

(3) East continues with his wild debauchery. He is preparing for a final three no-trump contract by trying to stop a spade lead, not realizing of course that the South player cannot be fooled.

(4) South still keeps innocently quiet.

(5) Not knowing how he is trapped, East goes through with his plan.

(6) South being reasonably certain of a 200-point set, is content to let it go at that as he knows that he cannot make four spades. To double with the South hand would be suicide, as East, no matter how courageous he may be, cannot possibly be foolhardy enough to stand by the double with two exit suits.

The hand was played in a team-of-four match and North and South scored 200 points for the four-trick set at this table. In the other room North and South took a sacrifice of 250 points at four spades, a swing of 450 points.

As a matter of fact, East and West, in addition to being able to make four hearts, can make five clubs.

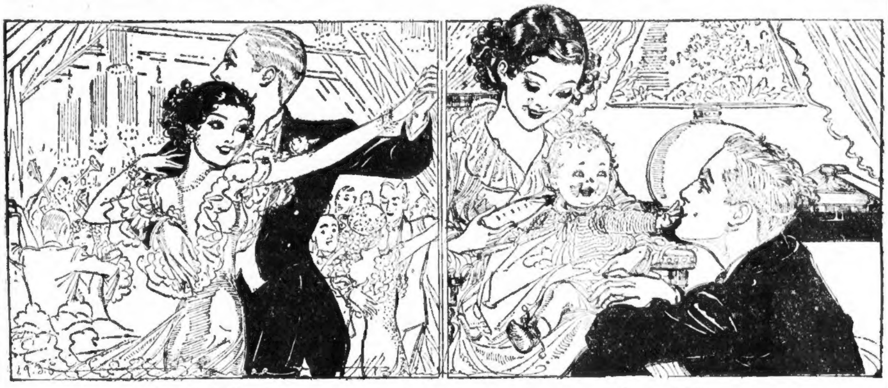
Why Don't You Get Married And Have a Lovely Baby



Is this Real Happiness

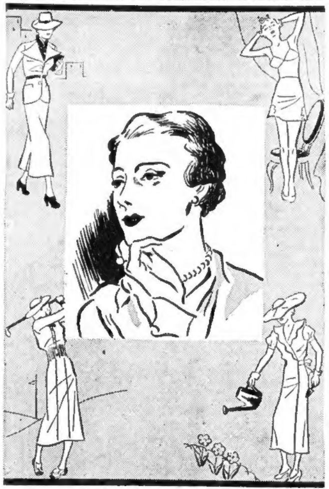
Or is this?

Which is real happiness, lasting and deep—The first picture, where two young folks are dancing in a whirl and a glare of lights and noise, the flare of a muted horn and the moan of a sax—Or the second, in the quiet of a room, under a shaded light, where the same two brood and laugh over their baby? Even the very youngest fellow and girl, with the smallest measure of seriousness in their thoughts, know the answer. The first is "fun," the second is HAPPINESS.

Into this page come letters. "John doesn't want a baby—but I do." "Ciss won't have a baby—but I would like one!"

—NELL BRINKLEY.

Charm Has No Age



No one thinks about age in connection with a woman who keeps fairness both of face and of figure.

But sometimes—in her efforts to keep her face fresh and youthful—a woman overlooks the real charm of a well-poised body; a graceful carriage; a light, girlish step.

Yet these qualities give a more youthful impression than a lovely face alone can ever give. And they are attributes that every woman may keep or cultivate.

The main thing is really to want them enough to try for them! You can't sit back and keep youth. The woman who keeps young is on her toes to meet life in all its phases. She eats right. She exercises according to her needs. She doesn't slump down into a daily routine, but keeps her mind open to interests outside her home.

Such a woman will not grow sluggish and heavy. Her figure will keep the firm, rounded, youthful outline that fashion demands. Here are some hints to help her do this:

Hold the body in correct position while sitting, standing or walking. Breathe deeply. This is particularly important for keeping the breast firm and uplifted, because habitual good posture and right breathing strengthen the pectoral muscles—an important factor in holding the breast in proper position.

The right kind of exercise is helpful, too. But beware a sudden change from no exercise at all to an ordeal which leaves you tired and aching, and which may prove actually harmful. Even when hips need reducing, take the right exercises just three or four times at first. Try to walk more. Three miles a day for a woman in good health will not be too much, and it will do wonders for the figure. Gardening or special exercises will correct the tendency of the upper arm to grow large and flabby.

In attempting any exercise it's important to know just what kind to take. Our new, illustrated 40-page booklet tells by word and diagram what exercises are best for the various parts of the body and how to go about them. Indeed, it gives you authoritative advice on just what correct posture is; how to prolong the appearance of youth for every part of the body—face, neck, arms, waistline, hips, hands and feet. It explains how to care for graying hair; how to prevent skin defects. It suggests make-up and costume colors for the woman whose skin is changing from its youthful coloring. Any woman over 30 will find "Beauty for the Mature Woman" a treasure trove on keeping and cultivating charm. To order it use the coupon below.

Skewers Are in Style

By MARTHA LEE

They have a shaped end which makes them attractive to serve at the table.

The idea of serving meat on skewers is Armenian in origin. We have adapted them to our own use in this country and have found a great variety of ways in which to serve them. Particularly are they a boon for the business woman or the housewife who has to prepare a meal in a hurry, for the entire meal can be broiled at one time.

The original recipe uses mutton which has been marinated in olive oil and seasoning. Today we use all kinds of meat — any small piece of beef, lamb, bacon, liver, oysters, sweetbreads and meat balls. These can be combined with vegetables or fruits. Tomatoes, egg plant and mushrooms are ideal for broiling. Prunes or apricots may be used. An attractive garnish may be made for a meat platter by placing a combination of fruits on the skewer—prunes, apricots and pineapple sprinkled with brown sugar—and broiling until delicately colored.

These foods may be either baked in the oven or broiled. Be sure to place them on a rack so that the excess fat can drip into the pan.

CALVES' LIVER AND BACON EN BROCHETTE

½ pound calves' liver
4 slices bacon

Cut the bacon slices into fourths and the liver into 1½-inch pieces. Run the skewer first through a piece of bacon, then liver, alternating till each skewer holds five pieces of bacon and four of liver. Thin slices of onion may be placed between if desired. Place on broiler. Arrange halves of tomatoes, thin slices of egg-plant and slices of cooked sweet potatoes. Broil about 15 to 20 minutes, turning all of the food, excepting the tomatoes, once. Oysters may be substituted for the liver. Tomatoes, mushrooms may be used, or sweetbreads, meat, lamb, etc.

YOUR TOASTER RIPS

CHEAPENED BREAD

the mask from cheapened bread

CHEAPENED bread can't slip by your toaster. If it's bad—out it goes. Your toaster shows it up every time. Only perfect bread gets by—for only perfect bread can make perfect toast. Your toaster can't lie.

Let your toaster guard your table. It can choose the best bread for you—and for your family. Just toast a slice of Wonder-Cut Bread. Then a slice of any other bread, for the same length of time. Compare them. What a difference—and what a true comparison of quality. Slo-Baked Wonder-Cut wins because it is the best bread.

If you believe your own eyes, you must believe the results of this test. Make it and know which bread is best. Then put all the others out of your mind. Slo-Baked Wonder-Cut is the best. Your toaster says so—and your toaster can't lie.

LEONARD SURE HE WILL KEEP JOB

Pins Hope in Council

Police Commissioner Joseph J. Leonard will still be commissioner after the ouster hearing Wednesday, he asserted today.

Full confidence that the Governor's Council will refuse to drop him was expressed by Leonard, as he prepared to give the police department its most thorough shake-up in years.

"My record in the short time I have been here is a splendid one," he declared, "and I cannot see where the governor has any reason to find fault or any sufficient case to present to the executive council."

Meanwhile, the police head prepared to make three new captains late today or tonight, one of them to be assigned to the revived Station 3 in Joy street a week from today.

There also will be other revisions, new officers made, old ones broken and the scrapping of several expensive systeme, some of them put into operation by former Commissioner Eugene C. Hultman.

The latter has been lined up as a Curley target who faces ouster proceedings as chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission.

Reveals Plans

Leonard said today that Division 3 on Beacon Hill will begin new operations with a captain, three lieutenants, eight sergeants and 97 patrolmen, most of them men who never served at that station before it was closed by Hultman, despite bitter protests.

What captain will be assigned there, the commissioner declined to state today, except that it will be one of the three new captains to be named.

Five lieutenants are eligible for elevation—George A. Mahoney of South Boston station, Thomas E. McMurray of Fields Corner, John A. Dorsey of the detective bureau, Elkana W. D. LeBlanc of Milk street and Timothy J. Sheehan of headquarters.

A report that the ouster hearing against Leonard might be delayed another week or two was denied by Attorney John P. Feeney when he visited the Governor's office with Attorney Francis R. Mullen, associated with him in pressing the Governor's case.

From the State House Feeney, Mullen, Miss Helen Carlin of Curley's secretarial staff and Frank Pedonti, the Governor's messenger, went to police headquarters, where they resumed combing department records.

In the search for ammunition, both against Leonard and Hultman, it is understood, photostatic copies of some records were taken.

Former District Attorney Thomas C. O'Brien, counsel for Leonard; Augustine J. Gill, acting secretary to Leonard, and John J. Carty, a Leonard secretary, were present.

The first sign of the departmental shake-up was the removal of 17 of the radio patrol cars from duty, and the returning of 102 policemen to foot duty.

The shift increases by nearly 20 per cent the number of "beat" policemen on the job.

In order to speed up the radio prowl cars to cover the work of the 17 eliminated, the $2000 code system has been scrapped.

The time spent in decoding the signals, Commissioner Leonard said, more than offset the value in keeping them secret from criminals.

A new light was cast on the Cosmos Club murder mystery with the arrest in Tremont street early today of Harry Gordon.

Lieutenant William D. Donovan, who had been transferred but a few days before as a disciplinary measure in Curley's campaign against Leonard, made the arrest.

Gordon is alleged to have been the operator of the gambling establishment which police found directly over the Cosmos Club, where Joseph "Red" Sweeney was murdered.

Gordon was charged with setting up and promoting a gambling establishment.

Evidence was found both on Sweeney and in the consequent investigations, that a huge narcotic ring was operating in Boston.

Several arrests have already been made on dope charges as a result. But the so-called "ringleader" of the smugglers is being sought alike by police and an aroused force of customs agents.

Meanwhile the horse-roce bookin fraternity was up againstthe most complete opposition by police that it has ever encountered here.

Cohasset Goes Yankee on Drinking

Drinking must be done in the old Yankee style, the selectmen ruled today, placarding the town's two liquor and four beer establishments.

No hidden booths, no pitchers or steins, no back rooms and no slot machines stand out sharply in the new rules.

In addition no one convicted of drunkenness in the past six months shall be served, nor shall anyone on the welfare list be able to procure a drink.

No federal or town pay checks may be cashed, and saloon and tavern keepers are ordered to keep a record of all sales.

"BABY BONDS"

Offered March 1

Washington, Feb. 18 (AP)—"The little man with the urge to save" will be invited by the Treasury on March 1 to invest in its new "baby bonds."

Prospective buyers were advised by Treasury officials today that the new securities, to be issued in denominations as low as $25, will yield 29 pjer cent compounded semi-annually. The issue will be the government's first drive to borrow from the "little fellow" since the World War.

NEW YORK

Elevator Strike STARTS

By Associated Press

New ork, Feb. 18—Elevator operators, ordered to strike at 10:30 a. m. today, abandoned their cars intermittent fashion throughout the morning.

Meanwhile, conferees in the mayor's office sought some agreement to check the walkout.

As a pre-strike show of strength the Union of Building Service Employes called its members from a 24-story building in the garment district at 8:30 a. m.

Operators and other building employes in the Harlem district of Manhattan, numbering more than 1700, followed.

Shortly after, three mid-town buildings were deserted by their service workers and none of these were involved with the union.

Employes in the Salmon building, West 42nd street, adjoining the Salmon Tower, at 500 Fifth avenue, were in the van of the strike. The building has 59 stories.

FRENCH FLIERS

TINKHAM

Asks U. S. to Quit ARMS PARLEY

By Universal Service

Washington, Feb. 18—A resolution demanding this country's immediate withdrawal from all further disarmament discussions at Geneva, today will be introduced in the House by Representative J. Holden Tinkham (R) of Massacousetts.

Tinkham declared the present "deplorable economic catastrophe in the United States" was caused by the nation's abandonment in 1917 of its traditional policy of strict neutrality, and added:

"The recent passionate outburst of the American people against entry into the League of Nations by way of the Court of the League has demonstrated the resolute purpose of the people to re-establish the principle of strict neutrality in relation to foreign political affairs.

ALCOHOL FIND

Guarded at Beach

More than $1000 worth of alcohol was washed ashore at Nantasket early today to give customs agents a new smuggling problem to solve.

DUDE RANCH

Owner Kills Self

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 18 (INS)—Friends were at a loss today to explain the suicide here last night of Ivan Blundell, 31, wealthy Reno, Nevada, dude ranch owner.

Blundell was visiting Mrs. Lois Thomas Reiners, his fiance, and daughtter of Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas, at her West Haven home, when he sent a .45 caliber bullet crashing through his head, and died a short time later.

Mrs. Reiners was granted a divorce sometime ago at Reno.

IF YOUR BREATH HAS A SMELL YOU CAN'T FEEL WELL

When we eat too much, our food decays in our bowels. Our friends smell this decay coming out of our mouth and call it bad breath. We feel the poison of this decay all over our body. It makes us gloomy, grouchy and no good for anything.

What makes the food decay in the bowels? Well, when we eat too much, our bile juice can't digest it. What is the bile juice? It is the most vital digestive juice in our body. Unless 2 pints of it are flowing from our liver into our bowels every day, our movements get hard and constipated and ⅔ of our food decays in our 28 feet of bowels. This decay sends poison all over our body every six minutes.

When our friends smell our bad breath (but we don't) and we feel like a whipped tomcat, don't use a mouthwash or take a laxative. Get at the cause. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills which gently start the flow of your bile juice. But if "something better" is offered you don't buy it, for it may be a calomel (mercury) pill, which loosens teeth, gripes and scalds the rectum in many people. This Is Life by
ROBERT E. ROGERS

Stuart Chase in one of his view-with-alarm books of a few years ago pointed out in considerable detail that in a technological civilization our population is dependent even for existence on the technicians.

He showed that a great city is entirely dependent on transportation and that if the transportation services ceased a city could be reduced to the verge of starvation quicker than is pleasant to think of unless the citizenship itself had the pluck and initiative to do what the upper classes did in England during the strike of 1926—organize their own amateur transport service for food and the necessities of life.

Robert E. Rogers

But that is not all, of course, as Chase pointed out. A telephone strike on a large scale, or above all a strike of the men who manufacture and distribute electricity could work almost unthought-of havoc.

New York seems about to have the first taste of that kind of direct action on the part of labor. The point of attack is shrewdly chosen. Most people would consider that elevator service is hardly a necessity of life. Nobody starves if elevators do not run.

Yet the fact remains that in New York elevators are a necessity of business and if you assume that business is a necessity of life, an elevator strike is serious enough to induce thought.

Certainly the modern skyscraper in its upper stories is virtually unscaleable by untrained, soft, sedentary people without dangerous consequences to the uncertain mod[illegible] in heart.

Substitutes Sought

That of course is why modern buildings of reasonable height, smaller hotels and the like are installing automatic elevators. Except for express elevators in skyscrapers one expects to see the practice grow.

That is the reason why the great telephone systems are steadily proceeding with their installations of dial phones. If great public utilities cannot trust to the [illegible] of labor then a substitute must be found for [illegible].

For the first two years of the President's administration [illegible] the impression that it was going to have things all its own way.

It has acted under the assumption with [illegible] results and the textile strikes in Massachusetts have made only [illegible].

It seems obvious from current events however that the honeymoon is over. Labor is [illegible] up against an administration which for all its suavity does not intend to stand for any delusions of grandeur on the part of any organization as to who or what is running this country.

If labor is attempting to bite off more than it can chew in calling strikes in industries of public utility—and it looks as if the elevator strike is a significant feeler in that direction—I am afraid it will no longer find a suave and sympathetic administration.

One remembers Cleveland's message about calling out all the forces of the U. S. A. if necessary "to carry a single post card."

Coolidge's Remarks

One remembers Calvin Coolidge's remarks about the right of the public servants to strike against the public interest "anywhere at anytime." I do not doubt that any remarks of Mr. Roosevelt will be quite as decisive and perhaps even more epigrammatic.

There are certain services without which modern civilization cannot function any more than it can function without the fire department and the police department.

Like them, the organization of transportation of gas and electricity, telephone and telegraph are departments of public safety.

Public opinion has shown that it will not endure a strike from people in the first named services. I have no doubt that we shall see the day when public opinion will not stand or countenance a strike or a threat of strike in those other primary services. And that is as it should be.

The American people are getting far more realistic minded than they used to be. They are harder boiled. They are less tolerant, more skeptical and suspicious of the old hokum.

Business and finance have had their turn of investigations.

Hereafter money must prove its case if it is to enjoy any public confidence.

Labor comes next. Labor, too, is going to be scrutinized closely as to its pretensions.

Labor, too, is going to have to learn that the public good must come before class advantage.

JEWISH FUND
Aid Sought Here

An appeal for funds to aid more than a quarter of a million Jews to flee from Germany to Palestine was made by Morris Rothenberg of New York, president of the Zionist Organization of America.

Speaking before the conference of the New England United Jewish Appeal at the Hotel Statler, he pointed out that Palestine can absorb at least 40,000 Jews a year if resources are provided.

WHITE HOUSE TEA FOR BOSTON GIRL

'CINDERELLA' SEES FIRST LADY

Cinderella and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt were to have tea at the White House today.

Cinderella is Miss Edith M. Larson, of Swampscott, 26-year-old Swedish governess, who won the Emergency Campaign contest for having the most shapely and most perfectly sized foot.

As a part of her first prize she was completely outfitted for the social event, which she herself described, in anticipation, as the most exciting thing that had ever happened to her.

The campaign fund which has been creeping slowly toward its goal of $4,000,000, was increased by a $36,000 list of pledges from the Boston fire department.

State workers have contributed $18,349 this year, nearly three times their 1934 pledge, and the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company employes have donated $4016.

This modern day "Cinderella's" dainty foot—which won her a contest sponsored by Boston's Emergency Campaign of 1935—is still working magic for her and is her reason today for appearance in the White House as guest of Mrs. Roosevelt. "Cinderella's" real name is Edith M. Larson. Her home is in Swampscott. Her Boston victory brought her a pair of good [illegible] complete outfit of [illegible] clothes, and all expenses of her trip to the national capital. ICE FLOES
Crash Feared
AT CAPE COD

While residents watched tensely, a floating island of 10-foot ice-cakes drifted about Provincetown harbor today.

A shift in the wind might send it crashing toward the wharves. Or a shift in another direction would send it out to sea.

Fishermen who could get assistance, beached their boats to save them from a sudden onslaught. But many were marooned outside the ice barrier and were making ready to flee before it.

Two of the fishing smacks, the Josephine, Captain Frank Firia, and the St. Joseph, Captain Guiseppe Gaiante, both of the Boston Italian fleet were beached on Long Point outside the harbor.

The warm weather which sent an unpredicted squall of slushy snow into Greater Boston caused the ice menace.

It melted the huge cakes from the inshore beaches and the fresh northeast winds piled them up in Provincetown harbor.

But Boston didn't fare quite so badly.

BE NONCHALANT
Advice to Freshmen

"Be nonchalant!" is the advice given to February freshmen by Marion G. Fettler, assistant to the dean at Boston University college of business administration.

Forget you ever went to high school.

Seek Rapid Transit

Somerville citizens were starting a campaign today to bring a rapid transit to their community. Mayor James E. Hagan addressed a mass meeting and spoke in favor of instituting such service.

TITLE TOURNEY UNDER WAY

It is the opening day of the City-Wide Pinochle Championship Tournament sponsored by the Boston Evening American.

Promptly at 2:30 p. m., in the Hotel Bradford ballroom, the tournament play to discover Boston's Pinochle King or Queen will officially start.

More than 500 entries have been received. Several hundred more entries are indicated by telephone calls made to the Pinochle Tournament Editor.

For those employed or detained during the day, there will be evening sessions throughout the tournament, beginning at 8 p. m.

Since there will be a large number of business and professional persons playing at the night sessions, those who are free during the day are requested to confine their playing to the afternoon sessions.

Drive Gets Fees

For today's play only, there will be an entry fee—25 cents—which will be turned over to the Emergency Campaign. If this fee has not already been sent in with your entry blank, it will be collected AFTER you have been assigned to your table in the ballroom and NOT at the door. This is to avoid unnecessary delay and congestion.

Cards, rules and score-sheets will be furnished free of charge.

Don't think because you haven't sent in your entry blank that it is too late.

Bring your entry blank with you to this afternoon's or the evening's sessions and play in the tournament. If you haven't a coupon, copies of the Boston Evening American will be on sale in the ballroom and [illegible] one clip, fill out and hand your entry blank to Leonard Williams or Rosamond Vane.

Mr. Williams, a prominent Boston real estate operator whose avocation is winning bridge championships, and Miss Vaney, woman state golf champion and one of New England's outstanding bridge teachers, are assisting Bridge Expert P. Hal Sims, general director of the tournament.

$300 First Prize

The first round of play will be completed at today's sessions. Any player winning two out of three games today is qualified to participate in the next preliminary round on Feb. 28.

The winner of three out of five games in this round will be eligible to play in the third round on March 2, when he or she must win four out of seven games to enter the final round on March 6.

Play will be individual, the game being two-handed pinochle. Play will be for games, instead of points, 1000 points constituting a game.

The first prize will be $300, with the opportunity to make an all expenses-paid trip to New York to compete for the national pinochle championship and $1000 with 14 other local champions at the Waldorf-Astoria.

A second and third local prize of $100 each and 50 additional prizes of autographed copies of Sims' "Pinochle Pointers" will be awarded for the next highest scores.

PAYING ITS WAY

A widowed mother and her daughters had a telephone, among other household conveniences. Sharply reduced income compelled a cut in the household budget, however, and the telephone was scheduled to go.

One of the daughters—an expert comptometer operator—had registered at the school for such part-time work as might be available, and GAVE HER TELEPHONE NUMBER so she might be reached quickly if wanted.

Result: Fifteen days' work during the ensuing month. The telephone stays, because, by this service alone, it has more than paid for itself.

Whether you can afford a telephone depends on its value to you. What it would cost you can be learned by calling a telephone business office. . . . (No charge for such a call.) New England Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Society Flocks to Hear Child Pianist

By BETTY ALDEN

SOCIETY'S VERY YOUNG ASPIRANTS to a musical career and those whose hours of piano practising are not what their fond mothers expect of them, were taken to Symphony Hall on Saturday afternoon to hear little Ruth Slenczynski . . . They marvelled at the masterful technique of this 10-year-old child, who, in spite of her poise at the piano, was just a child like themselves when she made her jerky little bows . . .

DEBORAH BROWN

Little Ruth's appearance here was in the interests of little children who are afflicted with heart disease and who are remembered by the enterprising committee of some of Boston's finest women who sponsored the concert . . .

Afternoon parties of mothers and children included Mrs. George Wightman with several small youngsters, Mrs. George Saltonstall West with her two sons, Mrs. Dudley Pickman, Jr., with a little daughter, and Mrs. Julian T. Leonard with her son . . . Countless other children of all ages were present . . . but until they reach their coming out age we have to recognize them through their parents . . .

Suits of Gray

OF THE DEBUTANTE and post-debutante group we encountered Lucy Rantoul and Deborah Brown, both in gray woolen suits trimmed with gray kidskin . . . Amy Lang in bois de rose wool, strolling with Barbara Coffin while they enjoyed a short puff in the intermission . . . Joe Emery, in emerald green with a Scotch plaid skirt, recognized so many friends that she only had time for a word with each . . .

Mrs. Francis W. Bird, in dark brown with white pique banding at the neckline, enthused with Mrs. Bernard C. Weld at the talent of that wonder child . . . Mrs. Charles S. Bird, Jr., and her mother, Mrs. Randolph M. Appleton, were having just as much fun as Mrs. Bird's young son . . .

Margaret Spencer, Martha Brennan and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Jr., were present . . . Raspberry red with gardenia corsage complemented the already bright and gay spirits of Mrs. Malcolm Stone, chairman of the delightful and successful event . . . and her friend, Mrs. Dudley Rogers Howe, who shared some of the responsibility for the concert, was evidently very pleased with the results of their endeavors to brighten the outlook of the stricken children who come under their care . . .

Others to whom that occasion will long be a pleasant memory are Mrs. Carl Dreyfus, Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Bradley, Mrs. Charles Mixter, Mrs. Howard R. Sprague and Mrs. Max L. Talbot . . .

The day's program, as evening came on, seemed to go from the sublime to the ridiculous, or from the ultra-modern to the semi-antique . . .

Atmosphere of Old Returns

THE ELOQUENT STORIES of the old music hall days of a century ago told us by our grandparents were no longer fiction to those of us who suffered in sympathy with the trials and tribulations of the hero and heroine in the revival of "The Drunkard," or "The Fallen Saved" at the Copley Theater . . .

Truth still continues to be stranger than fiction, however, as it did not take polite Bostonians long to cast their inhibitions to the winds and hiss and boo the desperate villain or cheer the handsome hero under whose adroit guidance all the apparently insurmountable difficulties which beset the cast were smoothed into a happy ending . . .

In offering this amusement to Boston audiences the management of "The Drunkard" is re-creating not only the atmosphere of the play but of the music halls of the '50's . . . audiences of that day would have thought it a quaint custom, indeed, to sit merely upright in chairs to watch the play without food and drink so the present day audience at this hilarious entertainment is treated to refreshments during the show . . . as an after piece there is community singing and dancing for all on the stage . . .

Because of its informality and uniqueness, everyone seemed to capture the spirit of fun the minute they were presented with the old fashioned handbill, reminiscent of the days when the music hall was the mecca of society . . .

Many First Nighters Attend

CONSPICUOUS AMONG society's first nighters were Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Bradley French with Mr. and Mrs. William H. Coburn, and Mrs. Franklin W. Hobbs with Rebekah Hobbs and a friend . . .

MRS. W. H. COBURN

Mrs. Coburn, with her well known interest in things musical, could not resist the temptation to join the group on the stage who were whole-heartedly rendering such old-fashioned tear jerking ballads as "Father, Dear Father, Come Home to Me Now" and "She Was Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage" . . . Once on the stage she responded to the entreaties of her friends and sang several solos . . .

Mr. and Mrs. J. Laurence Carrol recognized several friends in the audience, among them one of Mrs. Carrol's former classmates at college, Mrs. John E Yerxa . . . Bright scarlet silk fashioned the gown of Mrs. Harold D. Walker who sat at a table with her husband . . .

Polly Blodgett, society's diminutive skating star, attended with her mother and an escort . . . Being on the other side of the footlights brought no trepidations to Mrs. Stearns Poor, who has starred in several Junior League productions . . . She wore an evening gown of stuff garnet moire . . .

"The Killers' Pawn"

Lynn Man Finds His Life Staked in Game of Greed and Slaughter

By FLOYD GIBBONS

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Today, I've got a hair-raising tale to tell you—a story of terrorism and brutality that might well have come from Armenia in the time of the Turkish massacres—from Imperial Russia in the days of the pogroms, or from the bile-tipped pen of a war-time propagandist. But it didn't come from any of those places, boys and girls.

FLOYD GIBBONS

Lee didn't know about that black sedan until a man came up behind him as he was going upstairs. "Are you the manager?" asked the man, thrusting a gun in Lee's face.

"No," Lee replied.

Lee told [illegible] he couldn't [illegible] hit him on the head with the gun and told [illegible]

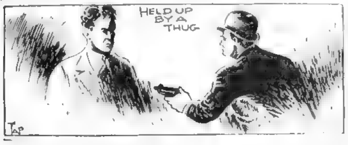
The thugs found out from [illegible] in charge. With a gun in his [illegible] assistant man[illegible] theater immediately—that state inspectors wanted to see him. Then they cuffed Lee into a corner and waited.

The assistant manager was slow in coming. The thugs began to get nervous. They beat Lee Donahue about the head and face—kicked him about the body. Th[illegible] a gun in the office. Lee knew there wa[illegible]

"If you're lying to us," said on of the thugs, "We'll blow your head off."



HELD UP BY A THUG
TAP

Hardly had he finished speaking when another thug found the gun. All three of them turned menacingly on Lee, and that moment was the worst in his life. "I must have lost 25 pounds," he says, "while those birds were coming at me."

A momentary diversion saved Lee's life. [illegible] window, a man was seen coming into the building. [illegible] wasn't the assistant manager. Lee didn't know who it was. [illegible] went out to bring him into the office, and, when [illegible] shot him three times through [illegible]

After that, the bandits began [illegible] Lee [illegible] double crossing them. They [illegible] the assistant manager [illegible]

They told Lee that if the assistant manager [illegible] cops with him, they would [illegible] took him out to where the dead man lay, to see w[illegible] would look like afterwards.

Then, suddenly, the thugs pushed Lee to the window to identify three men who stood talking on the sidewalk. He [illegible] nearly died of fright. One of the men was the assistant manager, but the other two were police inspectors and Lee had been told [illegible] again what would happen to him if the assistant manager brought any cops with him.

They [illegible] Lee's heart [illegible]

Had th[illegible] Would he b[illegible]

The two [illegible] alone. As [illegible] brought him [illegible]

While t[illegible] the other two [illegible] make their getaway.

There he waited [illegible] him about the head and face [illegible] what seemed a[illegible] minutes of to[illegible] leaving behind [illegible] floor.

It wasn't till later that Lee learned who those three yeggs were. Then he began to count himself lucky to have come out of their hands alive. They were the Millen brothers and Abe Faber, a crew of desperadoes well known, by now, to newspaper readers all over the country.

That experience gets Lee [illegible] simoleons. I know he wouldn't go through [illegible] as long as he's had it already, maybe the [illegible]

And that [illegible] the rest of [illegible] have had those th[illegible] moments [illegible] have had—you might as well cash [illegible]

I'll be around tomorrow with a [illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible] that will bring you right out of your seats.

O'DOUL TO ASK JUDGE LANDIS FOR REFUND

WANTS $4000 SEALS GAVE GIANTS FOR HIS RELEASE

San Francisco, Feb. 18 (INS)—Frank ("Lefty") O'Doul declared here today that he intends to appeal to Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's high commissioner, for a refund of $4000 paid to the New York's Giants for his release by the San Francisco Seals of the Pacific Coast League.

O'Doul said he feels the money rightfully belongs to him under the spirit and letter of the 10-year-rule, the purpose of which is to give a player who has served 10 years in the majors a chance to bargain for himself as a free agent when other major league clubs have waived on him.

O'Doul signed last Saturday with the Seals as manager.

Casey and His Boss

Casey Spurned College Bids

"I turned down two attractive offers to coach colleges outside of New England," stated Casey at the dinner.

"I also had the opportunity of taking over the head [illegible] of a large university [illegible] starting in 1936.

"But I feel that professional football has a great future here and I accepted President Marshall's offer to coach the Redskins above any of the others."

H. C. POST

"Offensive football, spectacular play, with particular stress on passing both forward and lateral, will be our chief aim next fall," Casey told his listeners.

"The public likes the open play, and, inasmuch as pro football is obligated only to the spectators, it is they we will try to please most."

Incidentally, we have it on good authority that Casey turned down both the Bowdoin and Harvard freshman offers and that he could have gone to Holy Cross as successor to Dr. Eddie Anderson in 1936.

Cure-all Himself—

Jimmy Doc Brown Has Cared for Sports and Theatrical Headliners

By Walter Kiley

James (Jimmy) Brown . . . known best as "Doc" . . . Trainer and friend of many of the "greats" of boxing and wrestling and the stars of the theater as well . . . Trainer of the Redskins, Boston's professional football team . . . A kindly figure who has devoted his life to the curing of the other fellow's ailments.

Born in the West End, July 31, 1888, the oldest of eight children, six boys and two girls . . . Brought up with the late Johnny Hallahan, Jack Mullaney and Parke O'Brien, famous sports writing figures . . . Educated at St. Mary's parochial and Phillips schools.

Boxed as a kid at the old Charlesbank gymnasium, where he first became interested in training while watching the work of the famous Kayney brothers . . . Trainer and manager of Al Rudolph, who became world middleweight champion under the name of Al McCoy . . . Also work with Frankie Britt.

JIMMY DOC BROWN

And plied his trade there with Sammy Mandell, Mickey Walker, Hilario Martinez, Todd Morgan, Bushy Graham, Johnny Risko, Jack De Mave, Arthur Flynn, Sammy Fuller and others . . .

Straightened out Sonnenberg's knee when it was hurt in one of his first mat bouts . . . And from then on travelled all over the country as Gus' personal trainer . . . And still considers the former champion the gamest fellow he ever saw . . .

Conducted morning radio exercises for three years . . . Boasts a modern health gymnasium on Beacon street where for years famous athletes and theatrical stars have flocked . . . Jimmy Savo, Bill Tilden and Max Baer being among his latest clients . . .

Is looked on as a master of physic-therapy . . . And during the past year, working in conjunction with Dr. Gerald "Chap" Doherty, Redskins' physician, has saved Prexy George Marshall costly outlays in patching up the gridiron disabled . . . Trainer of the ill-fated Roger Baker's five baseball clubs of the Northeastern League with headquarters at Wayland . . .

Married the former Letitia Welch of Roxbury in 1911 . . . Has two children, Lawrence, 19, and Letitia 16 . . . Resides in Revere . . .

Redskins Try A Noble Experiment

THE BOSTON REDSKIN PRO football club has undertaken a noble experiment in hiring Eddie Casey, late of the Harvards, to be male nurse and family governess to its paid, ex-varsity grizzlies. Hitherto the standard brand of pro football coach has been some slightly stale old stager who has outworn his college usefulness and is only stopping by as a way station to nowhere.

Austen Lake

Having to deal with a husky lot of copper-bottomed, steel-riveted human buffaloes who chew fulminating caps and expectorate fireworks, the pro coach has usually been gifted in sideline howling, and is a cross between a mountain preacher and a cornbelt politician.

Casey is none of these, but a courteous, shy and competent youth who always says "Ma'm" to the ladies and "please" and "thank you."

At Harvard he never came a-whooping out from the post of command a-hollering any swear words, and he never bull-bellowed at his boys between the halves in the locker rooms, or yelled, please, for the love of heaven, to stop playing patticake and go out there and fracture a few skulls for a change.

Casey's New Approach

IF CASEY'S DUTIES WITH the Redskins are merely to rehearse them in the fine details of football technique and brighten them up with scoring and defensive plays, I believe he will succeed in pro football where he failed in the college game.

Because Casey, with his storehouse of knowledge, is not now dealing with immature young students who are often slow to learn the A, B C's of blocking and tackling and all such primary-grade lessons of the game.

As Redskin coach he will have no obligations to alumni, faculty or parents of the athletes, and no Dean's List to rob his lineup on the eve of the big, traditional game with Siwash.

If he needs a pair of hulking, lightning-fast tackles, or a halfback who can corkscrew through a broken field, he need not fall down on his knees by his bed and pray that a wise, benevolent Providence will insert them in the current freshman class.

No sir! He can go out to the hayfields, the coal mines and the waterfront and choose what he needs, or import them, ready-made, from the best college teams of the country.

A Laboratory Experiment

THIS IS AN EXPERIMENT which I have dreamed about for many years. Because, if Casey, who was not good enough for Harvard, should make his system succeed in pro football, it will show that the blame in college football lies largely with the failure of the boys instead of the inefficiency of the coach.

I hold the quaint theory that if the players deserve full credit for their victories they should also be charged with their own failures.

This is assuming that Casey and his helpers gave the Harvard boys correct instructions and that the boys were either too lacking in the freight-handler's type of strength or too dumb to learn.

At the same time I will grant, at the seeming defeat of my logic, that if the Redskins gather 18 men, including substitutes, who are jewels of physical manhood and cum laude graduates in all the arts of the football field, they would not need any coach, and could merely be turned loose as strangers.

It is curious that one of the main criticisms of Casey at Harvard was his gentle, refined tendencies and his unwillingness to injure feelings.

If that was so at Harvard, where the students are advertised as polite lads who respond best to kindness, I wonder whether Casey's soft words and pious manner will control the Redskins' horny-handed, teeth-grinding and chest-thumping gorillas.

I don't know! If delicate handling failed with mild types at Harvard, and if Deitz's bull-bellowing failed with the Redskins' beeves, maybe by switching the systems and exposing the Redskins' savage breasts to placid, bland and competent treatment, they may be soothed into a new perfection.

Casey's Self-Contradiction

CASEY AS A PLAYER was just such a paradox. At Exeter where he played half to my fullback, he was a rip-snorting, hell-for-leather runner with swivel hips and a twitchy, high knee action that seldom gave tacklers more than a shoelace or belt-loop to grab.

He weighed only 160 pounds then, about what he weighs now, but on tackle dives he would hit with the impact of a train wreck and leave a wake of maimed and dying.

He never tackled on the defense, but threw his body broadside across a runner, in what was called "Indianizing."

But off the field, in the quiet, shady lawns of the school yard, in the dormitory common rooms, or in the study halls, he was always a shy lad with a nervous laugh and a quick, embarrassed way of ducking his head at schoolmates, who idolized him and were always following him around like the tail of a comet.

Pro Football's New Status

IT SEEMS QUITE FOOLISH now to remember that there ever was a period in college sport when anyone was seriously prejudiced against professional athletics on the theory that college men ought to find something more worthy of educated persons than to play or coach professional football.

This is partly due to the burst money bubble, the consequent increase of varsity graduates in the pro field, and the fact that the college coaches themselves took to visiting the pro games on a fireman's holiday and publicly admitted that the pro game was vastly superior to the varsity sort even at its best.

Casey was one of these, not dreaming, while he studied the perfection of the Redskins and wished his own unripe Harvard youngsters might emulate them, that he would some day become the male nurse and family governess to those same Redskins.

Only 3 Minor Changes Made In Grid Code

MODIFY 'DEAD BALL'

By Associated Press

New York, Feb. 18—The National football rules committee, following its annual meeting, today announced the adoption of only three minor changes in the gridiron code for 1935, including a modification of the so-called "dead ball" rule to permit a ball-carrier who is still on his feet, even though held by an opponent, to run, pass or kick until the whistle is blown.

[illegible]

OPEN UP GAME

[illegible] "will give the runner who has been tackled but not thrown a somewhat greater opportunity to break away or make a pass which will further encourage the open game."

[illegible]

CLARIFY CODE

"The positions of the center, guards and tackles are the ones occupied by these players when they originally entered the game. The field captain must designate upon request of the officials which players are the center, guards and tackles of his team."

The committee's entire deliberations [illegible] satisfactory, proposals [illegible] of the goal posts to [illegible] of the forward pass from any point behind the scrimmage [illegible] found no support and were [illegible] tabled. The committee was impressed by reports [illegible] that the hazards in the game had decreased, as shown by fewer injuries or fatalities last season.

Radio Questions, Answers

Q—Not long ago there was a prison program on WBZ called "Inside Looking Out" but we don't hear it any more. It was alleged to have been written by a man who spent much time in penal institutions—who was he and where is the program? F. F. of Framingham.

A—The attraction you mention was a local broadcast, written by an ex-convict endeavoring to re-establish himself socially. It was hailed as most impressive by listeners throughout the state, but sponsorship was not secured and the feature had to be discontinued. The man desires that his name not be used, other than as No. 7321" and we rather like the idea of honoring his request.

Q—Is the 'Buddy' in the Buddy and Blake" broadcasts a girl?—G. C., Jr., of Walpole.

Q—Does the announcer named Calvin Keech play any roles in the "Crime Clues" drama?—J. S. M., Newton.

A—No, and incidentally the first name is KELVIN and not CALVIN. He attends strictly to announcing as an NBC staff member.

Q—Reading your column on questions, I find you said that the character "The Singing Lady" originates all of her stories. Was not her telling of "The Magic Wish-bone" taken from a story of that name by Charles Dickens? I believe you'll find I'm right since my children recognized the story.—A. M. M. of Roxbury.

A—Upon investigation, it appears you are correct. This is a new trend by Miss Wickers, who does the "Singing Lady" broadcasts, but you'll admit she rearranges things and makes them even more interesting for kiddies than the original theme. Thank you for your interest and information.

Q—Tell me if John McCormack is now on the air and through what station? Is the 'One Man's Family' cast made up of screen people? N. G. M.

A—The idol of Irish song lovers is not now broadcasting, but is slated to return to radio in the spring—when things turn green. Actors in the program you mention are all radio performers and not of the stage or films.

Q—I wrote you and waited a long time for my answer. How old is Bill O'Connell, the Yankee Network announcer? Is he married? Also where are the WNAC studios located in Boston? Interested, of Boston.

A—Bill is 28 years old and still a bachelor. The studios are in the Hotel Buckminster. As for answering, there can only be so many replies published each day and we strive to obtain as much information as possible for every edition. Thanking all readers for patience, the mail is heavy.

TINKHAM

Opens Arms War

Washington, Feb. 18 (I'S)—A resolution demanding this country's immediate withdrawal from [illegible] disarmament discussions at Geneva today will be introduced in the House by Representative J. Holt [illegible] Tinkham (R) of Massachusetts.

In announcing his resolution, Tinkham declared the present deplorable economic catastrophe in the United States was caused by the nation's abandonment in 1917 of its traditional policy of strict neutrality.

OPPOSITION To Price ADVANCE Seen

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW

The acceleration of business and industrial activity since late 1934 has been so marked that some observers refer to it as a period of over production and forecast a nearby letdown,

Cleaving a way through the various uncertainties of the moment to this fundamental situation is the principal task of the market analyst. For it is the force in charge of the long term direction of share prices. Further large gains in purchasing power are not in sight, and business planners, aware of resistance to higher prices, have restricted themselves to a short term basis allowing prompt curtailment in the event of cautious consumer buying policies.

Burton K. Wheeler

The above is a weighted opinion compiled by the writer from late bulletins of the Alexander Hamilton Institute, the United Business Service and Standard Statistics. Through these, as well as other reliable business services, there is an important underlying note of caution. In substance, it is that so long as government socialization and regulation schemes continue to depress sentiment a sustained recovery does not appear possible. The best description of the outlook also fits the past. An irregular, halting recovery that would be a colorless affair if it were not for the sudden jerks marking attempts to move forward.

Notebook: The banking bill and the work program between them are tearing the Senate wide open . . . With emphasis on the inflationary forces . . . The success of the inflation forces will be of importance in revising opinions on business and market outlooks . . . Senator Burton K. Wheeler wants the entire work bill paid with a new issue of currency . . . While the bank bill, favoring credit expansion, is sure to be attacked by substantially the same crowd . . . They, of course, will want to expend currency issues.

Many weeks ago we wrote that Consolidated Gas had a habit of ultimately going where it says it will. This from a chart standpoint. Undoubtedly much good buying has taken place. But it has been of a decidedly long pull nature. More seems likely as the price eases off. We, however, remain of the opinion that the price of Consolidated Gas, which promises to approximate a bottom, is 16. Unless buyers are in a position to put the stock away and forget it there is little to do but operate elsewhere until it is more thoroughly sold out.

STOCKS Strong at CLOSE

EXTREME GAINS REDUCED

New York, Feb. 18—Skyrocketing prices, accompanied by the wildest trading seen since the inflation boom in 1933, was the stock market's response today to the Supreme Court decision upholding the government abrogation of gold clause contracts.

Amid a bedlam on the floor of the exchange, rail stocks set the pace for the soaring advance, with Atchison up more than 9 points at one time. Heavy profit-taking cut the gains later, but the advance was resumed in the afternoon at a quieter pace.

A wild buying wave sent the stock ticker 11 minutes behind a half hour after the decision was rendered, the first time in nearly two years the ticker has been so far behind. The recovery came after early weakness in which losses ran to nearly 2 points. Utilities alone failed to participate, with leading issues ruling around record low levels.

The same response was made by other markets with the exception of foreign exchanges. There gold bloc currencies and the pound sterling rose briskly against the dollar after foreign weakness.

Rails Feature

Sterling cables were bid 4.88⅛ compared with 4.86 at noon. French francs were bid at .0660⅛ compared with .0658⅝ at noon.

Professionals battled with brokers in bidding for stocks. The rails were very active, but there was activity in all issues.

U. S. Smelting was up 5, Celanese 3 and some of the chemicals moved forward from 1 to 3 points, compared with prices before noon.

Although steel production has declined, consumption of finished steels seems not to have slackened to a corresponding degree, the magazine "Steel" said.

Shipments to automobile makers and to agricultural implement and miscellaneous manufacturers have been well sustained, it was reported.

It was explained that users have taken about all the material they will need this quarter and that under the steel code orders for the second quarter may not be accepted until March 1.

Wall Street saw a note of caution in the statement of the review that there are some labor uncertainties in the steel industry and that there had been an increase in small strikes in metal-working plants last week.

Some cheer was afforded the financial district by the report of the PWA division of economics and statistics which stated that construction operations had risen to a three-year high. The 1934 construction total was estimated at $3,104,000,000, an increase of 27 per cent over 1933.

Boston Market

TRADING ACTIVE; STRONG TONE

Stocks turned strong following the gold decision today. Gains ran from 1 to 3 in active dealings on the Boston Stock Exchange.

Waltham Watch preferred rose 3 while American Telephone and New Haven were up more than 2.

Gains of 1 or more were noted in Edison, General Capital, United Fruit, United Shoe and Eastern Gas & Fuel prior preferred.

Net Income Up

Northern Pipe Line Co. reports for year ended Dec. 31, 1934, net income of $83,687 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., against $60,827 in 1933.

R. H. HEMPHILL SAYS

Let U. S. Geniuses Solve Export Trade

By ROBERT H. HEMPHILL

Financial Authority

The extended investigation into the curtailment of our export trade, conducted by the Senate agricultural committee during recent weeks, developed, perhaps, the greatest range of diverse opinion ever compiled upon one subject.

The committee called before it an imposing sequence of prominent theorists, commercialists and bankers. Almost as many opinions as to the central cause of our loss of overseas trade were developed as there were exponents.

Some of the ingenious theories advanced will occupy several pages of the forthcoming report, which ought to prove one of the most entertaining volumes ever issued.

One of the outstanding features of the investigation, however, is that no one seems to have suggested that maybe the reason our European neighbors do not purchase so freely from us is that they haven't the money.

Walk Over for U. S.

The average vision of what constitutes normal export trade is the memory of the lush days of the big boom when European countries were buying lavishly of our diversified products with a small fraction of the billions we were almost forcing upon them.

They naturally wanted immediate action for this deluge of easy money and our immense producing facilities, keyed to war time production gleefully gave it to them.

No Congressional action can restore that rainbow tinted period, but there are lessons of great importance in the experience, which it will reward our industry to digest.

It demonstrated that the whole eastern hemisphere can almost instantly adjust to our higher standard of living, with a vast demand for our most highly developed products if a workable medium of exchange can be developed.

It also demonstrated that American goods would outsell the average foreign manufacture.

The fundamental conception of the American manufacturer is to produce a genuine two dollar article by volume and efficient mass production, to sell for one dollar.

The South Central European and Asiatic conception is to produce a 50 cent imitation of the same dollar article and sell it for 75 cents.

Against this sort of competition the American manufacturer had, and in normally prosperous times will always have, a walk-over.

Exchange Study

Both the domestic and export problems are matters of a workable medium of exchange, BUT WE HAVE THE WRONG PEOPLE WORKING ON THE PROBLEM.

Henry Ford said:

"If an automobile broke down as frequently as our monetary system, someone would come along and fix it so that it would stay fixed."

HE IS DEAD RIGHT.

If our Fords, Youngs, Firestones, Sloans, Ketterings, and the remainder of a hundred of our outstanding construction and organization geniuses with a record of proven accomplishment would get together with a determination to solve this problem, and, discarding all misleading preconceptions, spend one week in intensive study of the fundamentals of EXCHANGE, this depression would become one of the monumental jokes of all time, and the world would move forward at a pace beyond the limits of the most fertile imagination.

WELL, WHY NOT?

Hits Theory of MACON LOSS

By Associated Press

San Francisco, Feb. 18—Efforts of the United States navy to determine whether a structural flaw caused the disaster to its pride of the skies, the dirigible Macon, continued before a court of inquiry here today.

The theory that weakness in the dirigible's metal structure was responsible for the collapse which sent it whirling into the Pacific Ocean with the loss of two lives last Tuesday was supported by Lieut. Calvin S. Bolster, construction and repair officer.

Lieut. Commander Herbert V. Wiley, skipper of the Macon, indicated by his sharp questioning of Lieutenant Bolster that he disagreed with the theory. He suggested that fluttering fabric, possibly loosened by rain, might have fouled the controls, throwing the ship into a damaging lurch.

Van Loon

LAVAL Case Is LESSON

TEACHES US TO SHUN LEAGUE

By Hendrik Van Loon

It was in the days of Jimmie Walker. "Anything goes" was the name of a policy and not of a play.

And so when it was announced that a French Minister of Foreign Affairs was about to visit our humble shores, it was decided to treat the event like the third coming of Lafayette.

Well, there was M. Laval and there was Jimmie Walker.

What that business was, that carried a French statesman all the way across the ocean, when as a rule such functionaries never travel beyond the village of Rambouillet, thirty miles from Paris—that, alas, has long since been forgotten.

Monsieur Pierre Laval came, saw and went home again. Monsieur Laval was promptly forgotten.

Until the rotagravure supplements of a few weeks ago brought him back to our minds. It seems that once more Monsieur Laval was Minister of Foreign Affairs.

There was little Pierre, moustachio and the scarlet ribbon of the grand cordon of the Legion of Honor and all.

The text itself really does not matter. But when two big powers with millions of soldiers and thousands upon thousands of tons of battleships begin to talk publicly about their truly Christian love for peace and fair dealing among the nations, then look out! For some little fellow is sure to get it in the neck, and pretty soon, too!

What happened in Rome was, of course, the old, old story which makes it so desirable for Americans, who do not understand that game, to keep out of the European witches' cauldron.

Italy needed to have her hands free in the Mediterranean while starting upon an expedition beyond the Red Sea.

What had happened to England I do not know. But England is no real menace to the safety of Italy. France might be. And so these two high contracting powers contracted.

Honest and sincere lovers of peace in Europe blame us, because we insist upon keeping away from, leagues and courts that are supposed to deal with international affairs.

They call us selfish and narrow-minded. But the facts today are all on the side of those who preach aloofness from what is sometimes called the European scene.

Mystery Hour Balks Riel Hunt

They said it was the hour between 12:30 and 1:30 a. m. on the November morning the 20-year-old former student at State Teachers' College vanished from her Oxford home.

The girl was driven to this city on that morning. They said knowledge of events during the hour that followed would go a long way in solving her disappearance.

This problem and details from an acquaintance, that were described by State Detective Edward L. McCarthy as "discrepancies," continued to puzzle those in charge of the hunt for the girl-mother of a baby born shortly before her disappearance.

The sleuths remained divided between theories that the girl is dead and the girl is alive. Examination of her diary showed her intense interest in the movies.

18,000 NAZIS at Pope's Jubilee

Berlin, Feb. 18 (INS)—Catholic authorities today estimated that more than 18,000 rallied to the big sports palace last night to honor the occasion of the 13th anniversary of the coronation of Pope Pius XI.

"Worldwide Christianity owes His Holiness a deep debt for his straightforward and virile defense of the faith," said Archbishop Cesare Orsenigo," the Papal nuncio, in the principal address.

Archbishop Nicholas Bares of Berlin also referred indirectly to the differences the Catholic church is having with the Nazi regime.

WHY We Have WARS

EVOLUTION IS KEYNOTE

By Hiram Percy Maxim

Copyright, 1935, by King Features Synd.

For 300 million years his ancestors have been at war.

The earliest creatures, not having intelligence enough to devise means of defense, developed a thick armor and formidable spikes. Descendants of these early creatures are the turtles, which are armored, and several of the lizards, which have spikes.

As time went on the mamals evolved. They were not hatched from eggs, but were born of a mother. Maternal instinct came into being.

Birth of Clans

As these mamals multiplied, hundreds of different species evolved. Some of these came to feed upon vegetation, instead of the flesh of their fellow creatures. Thus began a tempering of the spirit of warfare.

Late in mammalian development came the simian, or monkey family eaters of vegetation for the most part. They were not driven to warfare for their daily food.

This led these creatures to form tribes, or clans, and the rudimentary social life led to still further tempering of the war spirit.

However, war was too firmly implanted to be banished entirely, and so revolutions within a tribe occurred.

This divided a tribe into separate units, each of which went its separate way, and in time became a different species.

Dawn Men Came

As a result of some great natural upheaval, probably the forming of the Himalaya Mountains in central Asia, herds of all kinds of mammals scattered.

From the simians among these came the first pre-human, or dawn men. There came to be several species of these, each waging unremitting war against the others for food, weapons and preferred shelters.

After hundreds of thousands of years, one of the species of dawn men rose to superiority and exterminated competing dawn men species. You and I are lineal descendants of those conquerors. Is it any wonder that we are warlike?

When civilization dawned, an historical era began.

War had revealed the value of co-operation. It was but a step to realize that co-operation in peace would be of like value. Gradually there came the great teachers and a few men listened to the Golden Rule.

However, warfare still remained the most honored profession. Conquering Romans looted their weaker neighbors.

As civilization progressed, men came to recoil from brutish cruelty, and were attracted to mercy and nobility of character.

While the spirit of war holds fast, it is now companioned by the spirit of mercy and nobility of conduct.

In the World War, in enemy air squadrons, men fought each other to the death as savagely as men ever fought in past centuries. But when a brave and skillful air warrior on one side was shot down in the skies and fell to horrible flaming death, the other side occasionally dropped messages of sympathy and respect.

Here we have man's blood-stained war record. If we continue to advance in the future as we have advanced in the past, we shall depend less upon warfare and more upon sympathetic co-operation. But a change so contrary to our inheritance of countless centuries will take time.

MUST HANG For Murder

Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 18 (INS)—William H. Dodez, 65, former railroad engineer, was sentenced to hang in Wethersfield state prison before sunrise June 18 for the murder September 28, 1934, of his friend and husband of Dodez's ex-wife, Charles E. Farley, 57.

The elderly prisoner did not falter as Judge John Richards Booth pronounced sentence.

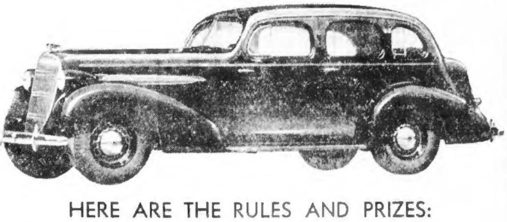
AUTO IDENTITY CONTEST

500 GALLONS GASOLINE FREE!

. . . 15 PRIZES . . .

It's simple . . . Any one can win . . . Elsewhere on this page, the names of five 1935 automobiles are hidden among the Classified Ads. One of these makes will be the car pictured below. Paste the right make under the car and write the name of a dealer handling that car. Every day for fifteen days, February 17th to March 3rd, inclusive, the American-Advertiser will publish pictures of 1935 automobiles.



HERE ARE THE RULES AND PRIZES:

RULES:

1. Everyone is eligible to participate in the "Auto Identity Contest" except employees and families of employees of automobile concerns, their advertising agents and of the American and Advertiser.

2. The "Auto Identity Contest" consists in identifying the different makes as they are printed together with naming a dealer who sells that car.

3. Every day from Feb. 17th to March 3rd, inclusive, pictures of 1935 automobile models will be published. Only one picture of any one make will be published.

4. Clip the picture out of the paper and from one of names of the makes that will be scattered among the Classified ads, paste the right make of the car under the picture along with the name of a dealer who sells that car. Hold all pictures until all fifteen have been published and then mail them to the "Auto Identity Editor," Boston Sunday Advertiser, 5 Winthrop Square.

5. All entries must be postmarked not later than midnight, March 5th. No entries will be returned to the sender.

6. Fifteen prizes, in accordance with the complete prize list published herewith, will be given to persons sending in the first fifteen correct answers to the contest. Neatness will count.

7. A committee of judges will be appointed by the American and Advertiser to determine the winners. All entrants agree to accept the decision of the judges as final.

8. It is not necessary to purchase the American or Advertiser to compete. The newspapers may be examined at our offices or at the public libraries free of charge, and if you wish you may copy or trace the pictures and then assemble the sets from the copies you have made.

THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY AND ITS FORGOTTEN PLEDGES

"The Democratic Party solemnly promises:

"1. An immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus, and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of federal government.

From the Democratic national platform, 1932.

"I have accepted the platform WITHOUT EQUIVOCATION and WITHOUT RESERVE."

"Let us have the courage TO STOP BORROWING to meet continuing deficits. STOP THE DEFICITS."

America's National Defense Endangered by Unfriendly Foreign Propaganda

IT was Lord Wellington, the hero of Waterloo, who said that the wars of England were won on the playgrounds of her public schools.

Where wars are won they may also be lost, and the future wars of America may be lost on the grounds of our schools and colleges if we permit them to be invaded by foreign Communistic propaganda.

Our schools and colleges are the FIRST LINES of our NATIONAL DEFENSE.

Those lines will be strengthened if all our public school education is DOMINATED BY PATRIOTIC AMERICANISM.

They will be weakened to the point of endangering the national safety if propagandists are permitted to corrupt our youth with Communism or any other UN-AMERICANISM.

NOT all such unfriendly foreign propaganda is the work of individual fanatics or even the authorized agents of particular foreign governments.

So that our institutions are undermined and our national defense thereby weakened, foreign governments do not mind who does the undermining.

The nations will call conferences for naval treaties and armament limitation when confronted with financial difficulties, but they do not call them for common action against Communist propaganda.

Why?

MOST of the nations of Europe are ready with some form of Fascism or Naziism to suppress a Communist movement.

But free speech, free press, free democratically governed America is a shining mark for revolutionary radicals.

Europe is not lending us any hand in the suppression of Communism.

On the contrary, it is lending us or sending us Communistic agitators bearing European passports and other European credentials.

Some of them come as visitors and some disguised as lecturers on literature, science or the arts.

European diplomacy is familiar with their purposes, and the fact that it issues them passports implies approval, not of their doctrines, but of the undermining effect which those doctrines may have in America.

"How Diplomats Make Wars" is the title of a book that was very popular in America after we were dragged into the European conflict, but it calls for a sequel showing HOW DIPLOMATS WIN WARS by weakening their adversaries before the wars are actually started.

Preparedness is not solely a matter of building up navies, armies, fortifications and aviation corps.

On the part of our enemies, and every nation has its enemies—the richer the nation the greater the number of its potential enemies—on their part preparedness is a matter of getting control of whatever is a factor in our national defense.

IF our educational system, our financial system, our tariff policy, our merchant marine policy and our system of communications, press radio, cable and telephone, can be controlled or influenced by the foreigner, he will require so much less to succeed in any conflict with us.

Diplomats sometimes win wars as well as make them.

It may seem a far cry from the diplomats in the Foreign Offices of Europe to the bewhiskered Bolshevists who invade America with their Communist propaganda, but it is not so very far.

In this, our period of national defense observance, as much attention should be paid to our schools, colleges, lecture platforms, radical publications and anti-preparedness agitations as to our fortifications, our Army, our Navy and our aviation forces.

WHATEVER TENDS TO WEAKEN AMERICAN LOVE FOR AMERICA AND AMERICAN INSTITUTIONS IS A MENACE TO THE NATIONAL SAFETY.

Industry and Labor Must Co-operate to Save Our Mills

GOVERNOR CURLEY moves to halt the swift decadence of the local textile and shoe industries.

Restoration of prosperity to these key industries will secure the industrial future of New England.

Failure will be ominous.

The industries are in their present plight because they lacked leadership that would co-ordinate and fuse the interests of their several branches in a solid, protective front.

The Governor now supplies that leadership.

He calls the textile leaders together for the drafting of a tentative program of rehabilitation.

He names a committee to do the same for the shoe industry.

He gets SOMETHING STARTED, and that in itself is REAL ACCOMPLISHMENT.

But the measure of final accomplishment—the degree to which prosperity is restored to New England's mill industries—depends upon how far the industries themselves are willing to go along with the Governor in his attempts to aid them.

THERE are really two problems of several similar aspects. From all New England textile mills have migrated South in search of cheaper labor and lower taxes.

From Massachusetts, where the shoe industry was concentrated, the movement has been to neighboring states, but for the same reasons.

Each industry has its own particular difficulties to work out, but any program for either, to have any chance whatever of success, must be based upon a willingness of all parties concerned to CO-OPERATE in the attempt.

Manufacturers and labor will have to stop "crying baby" and "crying wolf" and "crying strike." Both must make concessions.

If the Governor's committees can agree upon that as a starting point, they can then move ahead to obtain from government, state and federal, a more comprehensive appreciation of their problems.

For important concessions must be won from government—by both state and federal where industry is being taxed out of existence—by the national government in the matter of wage equalization under codes which are now UNFAIR to the textile industry in all New England, and to the shoe industry in the big Massachusetts centers.

NEW ENGLAND'S textile industry is functioning 38 per cent of normal prosperity capacity.

That's how grave conditions are.

Higher tariffs on textiles and shoes would appear to be imperative. Equalization of the wage scales certainly is necessary.

Details affecting more complex problems peculiar to each industry in this section can be worked out in a fair manner to all—IF ALL ARE WILLING TO CO-OPERATE.

A good start has been made. The Governor can be depended upon to provide vision, energetic and fighting leadership. He is ready to give every help.

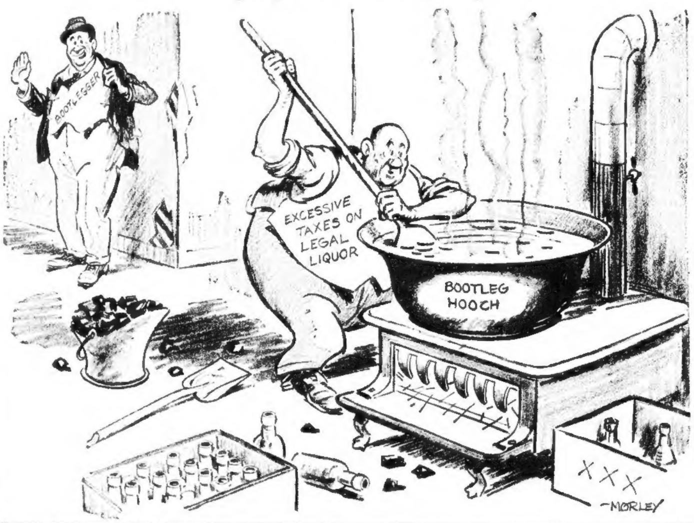
Keeping the Pot Boiling



Listen, World! -:- -:- By Elsie Robinson

I know scores of people who are making elaborate preparations for their Big Opportunity—getting ready for luck. Few of them have any definite idea of what this Big Opportunity will be, or even what they'd like it to be, but they're living in expectation of it and are quite sure that they will recognize and grasp it when it arrives.

Elsie Robinson

Most of them, to be sure, have had chances in the past to better their condition. The men were offered jobs—the women marriage. But there was always something wrong with the offer. It didn't come at "just the right time." Or implied conditions they felt they couldn't accept.

They didn't want to "leave the folks and go way off to a new place where they didn't know anybody." They were reluctant to give up old habits. The Wednesday luncheon with Bill. The morning 'phone gossip with Mabel. And they were afraid.

Afraid of new programs—new challenges. Alien eyes, critical tongues. Suppose they failed? Got themselves laughed at? Spent all that money and then didn't make it?

WEREN'T READY

In short, they "weren't ready." Some day, of course, the Big Opportunity would come, and when it did they'd be quite willing to make all the moves necessary. But in the meantime—they'd wait and make the best of things. And get ready so they could take advantage of their luck when it did turn. A fellow was a fool to jump at a chance until he knew Everything Was Okay. That's how people got into such messes.

So they waited. And are still waiting. For, strangely, in spite of their excellent reasoning, their Big Opportunity has never come. OR DID IT, PERHAPS, COME WITHOUT THEIR RECOGNIZING IT? DID THEY MISS THEIR CHANCE AT LUCK BECAUSE IT FAILED TO FIT THEIR PRETTY, PRECISE PATTERN?

Waiting. All over the world, people waiting like that. Waiting Until Everything Is Ready . . . until they can step ahead without danger or inconvenience, loss or regret. And that, of course, never happens.

LIFE AND LUCK

You can't "fix things just right" with progress. You've got to take Life and Luck as and when they come. And they'll never come to suit your convenience.

You don't believe that, do you? You remember those fascinating Success Stories you've heard—of lucky people whose life was suddenly transformed by some stroke of luck.

From poverty to riches in one leap! Surely they knew their Big Chance had come—they weren't bothered by the bewilderment which beset other mortals.

That's how you see the Other Fellow's Luck. But what a surprise you'd get if you could look behind the scenes. Actually he was no more "ready" for his Big Chance than you are today. He, too, was pestered by his secret cowardice and laziness.

There were ties and habits he didn't want to break, risks he didn't want to take, scores of things he still hadn't "got around to doing"—

Yes, it looked like his Big Chance to the rest of the world. But how could he know that it really was? How could he be sure that he wouldn't be sorry if he took it?

He COULDN'T! No one ever can. No Big Opportunity ever yet carried a no-risk-your-money-back-if-you're-not-satisfied guarantee. It MAY be the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, for which you've been waiting. Or it may be just another gold brick. You never can tell.

You'll just have to take a chance. And you never can make sure by contriving and fussing beforehand. Things will NEVER be "just right."

Two-Gun Statesman

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

THE GLOBE TROTTER OF HEARST METROTONE NEWS

Edwin C. Hill

Now, at 77, he is still a two-gun statesman, quick on the draw, shooting from the hip—but shooting at phantoms.

His world of established certainties is now a ghostly snake dance of rubber dollars and rubber philosophies; even a machine gunner couldn't pop off those shadow shapes that now be-devil conservative financiers and statesmen.

The President is a warm friend and admirer of Senator Glass, but now he snubs him.

He didn't consult him on that gigantic relief program, and now Carter Glass was again sidetracked as the Senate Banking and Currency committee prepared the administration banking bill without consulting the senator or his sub-committee.

BANKING SPECIALTY

Banking is the senator's specialty. The Federal Reserve Act was virtually his creation. He has been in the front trenches of every fiscal engagement in his years in Congress, and there is no man in the Senate today who would care to take him on for a knock-down-and-drag-out argument.

Nobody thinks for a minute he's going to stay sidetracked. He'll be back on the main line.

In reporting many national political conventions, caucuses, congressional battles and backroom huddles and haggles, it has been my impression that this fighting bantam has had, and still has, a distinction of his own which makes him absolutely unique in American political history.

He's a self-starter. Whatever he says or does is 100 per cent Carter Glass.

At any big convention, you will hear the railbirds passing along the word that "the fix is in"—that some party mogul or other has sent out from his hotel room a word of command.

But never do they figure Carter Glass in on these deals. He rides alone. And when he speaks on a public issue, everybody knows it is Carter Glass speaking, and not some ventriloquist in Wall Street or Main Street.

BOY FIGHTER

Both sides were moving in cautiously, when the red-headed Glass boy, the smallest of the lot, tore out in front with a baseball bat and made it his personal fight.

When he was 14 he had to go to work. He became a printer's devil on a Lynchburg paper.

When he was thirty, he owned the sheet. Red hot invective was par for the Virgina journalist in those days, and Carter Glass could make a sentence bite like a bull whip.

With just a slug or two of type he could raise blisters all over any rash challenger who was foolish enough to mix with him.

That started his gun-toting. It was probably a good idea. Quite a bit of preparedness was necessary to back up what Carter Glass used to say about his political adversaries.

He never went out after a political office, never campaigned, but they sent him to the House for 22 years, until 1920, and then to the Senate. Woodrow Wilson made him secretary of the treasury. The Roosevelt administration offered him the same post.

His world has changed. Geared into little jobs and installment payments, we don't breed fighting men like that any more. But isn't there something essentially American in old Carter Glass that is worth holding on to? I'm wondering.

Words of the Wise

It is really my wish to have my mind and my actions, which are the result of reflection, as free and independent as the air. —George Washington.

Many suffer from ignition trouble; our batteries run down. Both a battery and a human heart need constant recharging. —Bishop George A. Miller.

Democracy affirms that the people can rule and that by ruling they will learn to rule well. —Dr. Hubert R. Herring.

Stars and Stripes

"The South is in the saddle" again in Washington, and the horse it is riding is the same old donkey.

In making his 1935 contract with the St. Louis baseball club Dizzy Dean is said to have "compromised" with the owner. Dizzy is softer in the pocket than he is in the head.

Some are so dense they think the proposed "All-American Air Derby" is a congressman's hat.

Admiral Byrd may be coming home, but things have got to improve before it can be said he is returning to "civilization."
